December 6th... Don't Miss It! The Annual Holiday Tree Lighting and Holiday Dinner

Mark your calendars. There are two annual events that are happening on December 6th. The Hamlet of Beaver-creek will be holding their Annual Holiday Tree Lighting Ceremony. This will take place at the Korner Park in downtown Beavercreek. The festivities begin at 7:00 p.m. Refreshments, including Hot chocolate, hot apple cider and cookies will be served. There will also be burn barrels to keep warm.

There will be live entertainment performed by local musician Mark Seymour as well as a visit from the rotund one himself... Santa Claus!

Beginning at 5:30 p.m. the Beavercreek Grange will be hosting the Annual Christmas Dinner. The Grange Hall is located at 22401 S Kamrath Road, one house down from the intersection of S. Beavercreek, Leland and Kamrath Roads. This is a community potluck dinner. The Grange provides the turkey, dressing, gravy, ham and drinks. Those who participate are asked to bring their favorite dish to add to the meal.

After the meal everyone is invited to walk over to the Korner Park to take part in the Annual Tree Lighting ceremony that will follow. So bundle up the children and come to the Grange to have Christmas Dinner and then go to the tree lighting! We hope to see you there!

Guide to 2015 Health Insurance Coverage: Understanding What You Will Pay for Care

As open enrollment for 2015 health insurance plans approaches, the Department of Consumer and Business Services, Insurance Division, is providing information to consumers about how to choose the plan that best meets their health and financial needs. This guide focuses on your cost of health care.

When comparing health plans during open enrollment, it is important to find the plan that best meets your financial and health needs. That means taking a close look at what services you expect you will need during 2015 and how much they will cost.

Although you pay the insurance company a monthly premium for coverage, you will also pay a portion of the costs for many of the health care services you receive. Generally, if you pay a lower monthly premium, your share of the costs for services may be higher. If you choose a plan with a higher monthly premium, you may pay less when you visit a doctor, fill a prescription, or use other medical services. Here are the key terms to look for when comparing plans:

Deductible: The annual amount you pay for care before your plan begins to pay. For example, if your deductible is $1,000, your plan will not pay anything until you have paid $1,000 worth of care. Keep in mind that not all payments apply toward your deductible. For example, your costs for out-of-network services or a flat dollar co-payment may not count toward your deductible.

Out-of-pocket maximum: The most you pay during a policy period (usually one year) before your plan begins to pay 100 percent for covered benefits. This maximum never includes your premium, and some plans do not count all of your co-payments, deductibles, co-insurance payments, out-of-network payments, or other expenses toward this limit.

Co-insurance: Your share of the costs for care that is covered. It is a percent (for example, 20 percent) of the "allowed amount," which is the amount the insurance company has negotiated to pay for a service. For example, if the health insurance or plan's allowed amount for an office visit is $100 and you have met your deductible, your coinsurance payment of 20 percent would be $20. The health insurance or plan pays the rest of the allowed amount, or $80

Co-payment: A fixed amount (for example, $15) you pay for covered care, usually when you receive the service. The amount can vary. For example, it might be $15 for a regular doctor visit and $30 for a specialist visit. Your prescription drug co-payment could vary depending on the type of prescription drugs.

If you qualify, you may be able to get tax credits to help pay for your premium as well as cost-sharing reductions. This financial help is available only through the Federal Health Insurance Marketplace at healthcare.gov.

The open enrollment period for people who buy their own health insurance runs from Nov. 15, 2014, through Feb. 15, 2015. This is the one time during the year when you can change plans, change insurance companies, or choose to stay with the plan you have. You can shop and access financial help during open enrollment by visiting the Federal Health Insurance Marketplace at healthcare.gov. Consumers can also enroll directly with an insurance company or agent. Agents and community partners can help you sort through the many cost-sharing and premium options to decide which plans might be the best fit for you. The Grotto's Christmas Festival of Lights Opens November 28

Since 1988, The Grotto's Christmas Festival of Lights has become a must-see holiday tradition celebrating the true meaning of Christmas. Known as the World's Largest Christmas Choral Festival, The Festival of Lights features five choirs each night from throughout the Pacific Northwest, totaling more than 160 choirs, choral groups and special guests. This year, pianist John Nilsen performs on December 11th, and "Ten Grands" founder and artistic director, Michael Allen Harrison, once again closes The Festival on December 30th.

Festival visitors can enjoy hot beverages and food as they stroll through The Grotto's amazing million lights on display. Each night, children enjoy the petting zoo and interactive puppet show while carolers and dulcimer minstrels entertain guests of all ages.

The festival opened Friday, Nov. 28, and continues every night, except Christmas day, through December 30th. Gates are open from 5-9:30 p.m., with grounds closing at 10 p.m. General admission is $10, seniors (65+) are $9, and children (3-12) are $4. Children 2 and under are free.

The Grotto's Executive Director, Father Jack Topper, O.S.M., said, "Our intent is to blend the traditional sights and the sounds of the season with the hope, peace, and love that Christmas heralds. The season, the songs, the acoustics, and the purpose of the festival are so inspirational that our chapel is a perfect setting for these magnificent concerts. We are very fortunate to receive support from so many choirs. Many of them are among the finest in the region and have performed at the festival for many years."

Fr. Topper added, "It is gratifying to see the impact our festival has had over the last 27 years and will continue to have. We are grateful to the more than 8,000 volunteer performers offer their gift of music."

Over 800 volunteers are needed to make the Festival happen. If interested in volunteering, email volunteer@thegrotto. org. The Grotto is located at NE 85th and Sandy Blvd. in Portland.

Clackamas County Awards $200,000 to Nonprofits Serving Vulnerable Populations

The Clackamas County Board of Commissioners has announced the recipient organizations of $200,000 in grants to support local nonprofit organizations that serve seniors, veterans in need, the families of children stricken with cancer, at-risk youth, the developmentally disabled, the homeless, the hungry, low-income individuals, and teen parents.

Commissioners set aside $200,000 from the County's

General Fund to support the Small Grants Program, now in its sixth year. The program is aimed at assisting local nonprofit groups that use these funds for projects to serve some of the most vulnerable populations of our community.

Projects selected for funding demonstrate either the ability to become self-supporting or are a much-needed one-time expense.

"We are proud that our local nonprofit organizations leverage these grants into meaningful assistance for our vulnerable populations in Clackamas County," said Commissioner Jim Bernard. "The Small Grants Program is an outstanding partnership between government and the nonprofit community to provide assistance and support to help our needy veterans, seniors, and others who are facing challenging times in their lives. Nothing is more important than the safety and well-being of each and every member of our community."

This year, 37 groups were selected for grants ranging from $600 to $15,000. A total of 88 organizations applied for grants in July and August.

Last year, Clackamas County Commissioners provided the same total amount of funding ($200,000) to dozens of local nonprofits that helped similar at-risk populations, including struggling homebound individuals.

Clackamas County began distributing grants during the past several days. Many of the grants will be used in the next few months to address pressing issues facing numerous populations during the coming winter season.

Organizations receiving grants are required to show how funds are used. This continual evaluation includes reviews of service levels and performance measures.

Included in this year's awardees is Beavercreek's United Church of Christ, The 10 O'Clock Church, $600 for the purchase and installation of safety devices for a food pantry in Beavercreek.

Also, Colton's Helping Hands Inc., $3,000 for the purchase of supplemental food to feed an additional 155 families per week throughout rural Clackamas County.

The thieves were very brazen as they chose to pull of this robbery during the day when there was someone on site. Th secretary arrived at 9 a.m. and at about 9:13 a.m. she saw a light gold colored Ford Explorer with a utility trailer behind it drive from the back of the building & leave the parking lot. The SUV had unmatched black wheels. Apparently, they had come before she arrived that morning.

The trailer was a flatbed type with approx. 2' sides. At the nose of the trailer was a white washer or dryer, then a blue tarp covering other contents. A check was done throughout the interior of the building to make sure no windows or doors were open or broken in to. Everything looked fine inside. When church personnel went outside they noticed tire marks that went around to the container. The container was closed, but had been broken in to. Most of the contents were gone. This is the second robbery at the church in the past 2 years. And this time during the day.

CCC Student Named Coca Cola Leader of Promise Scholar

Clackamas Community College student Kira Hein has been selected as a 2014 Coca-Cola Leaders of Promise Scholar. The awards are given to new students in Phi Theta Kappa, the honor society for students at two-year colleges, to help defray educational expenses.

Coca-Cola Leaders of Promise Scholars are selected based on outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership potential. This year's recipients were selected by a panel of independent judges from more than 900 applicants.

Recipients of the award received a $1,000 scholarship. Hein is a sophomore at CCC, who is on the women's softball team. She is a 2013 graduate of Forest Grove High School earning an associate's degree at CCC. Future plans include transferring to Oregon State University and majoring in education.

The Leaders of Promise Scholarship Program was launched in 2001 to benefit Phi Theta Kappa members, providing assistance in obtaining an associate degree, while encouraging participation in the honor society's programs. The scholarship program is especially beneficial at a time when increasing importance is given to completion of a college credential, associate degree or certificate, among community college students.

Voters Approve CCC Bond

Voters in the college district on election day approved a Clackamas Community College bond measure that will provide funds to update and expand college classrooms and labs and modernize equipment to meet current industry standards.

"We are grateful to our community for the support," said Greg Chaimov, chairman of the CCC Board of Education. "Passage of the bond ensures students in our district will have enhanced opportunities to train for in-demand, living-wage jobs and to pursue transfer degrees."

The $90 million bond measure was structured so it would not increase the tax burden on residents in the district. Passage of the bond ensures the college has the matching funds required to receive $16 million in State funds designated by the Legislature.

The State matching funds will support two projects in the bond - an industrial technical learning center and a workforce development facility. In addition, the college intends to raise an additional $5 million to leverage bond funds.

The bond measure was developed after a two-year community engagement process, Imagine Clackamas. Through Imagine Clackamas, the college asked community members, business owners, staff and students what they wanted from the college. The bond projects address the needs identified by the community during the Imagine Clackamas process and other surveys and public forums.

Clackamas Community College has 27 buildings on three campuses in Oregon City, the Harmony Community Campus in North Clackamas and the Wilsonville Training Center. These projects would allow students to complete a two-year degree at any of the three campuses.

CCC provides career technical programs, college transfer degrees and basic skills education, along with workforce and business services, job training and community education classes. The college serves more than 30,000 students per year.

"I appreciate the support in our community for CCC and the work we do to prepare people for a lifetime of greater opportunity," said President Joanne Truesdell. "This bond measure will protect the community's investment and open the way for new, progressive partnerships."

Mud Season is Fast Approaching!

Here are a few things you can do to protect your animals from mud related health issues. These activities will also keep you from slogging through a muddy mess.

- Fence animals out of creeks, wetlands, and lakes (provide alternative water sources if needed)
- Practice good management for a healthy pasture, avoiding grazing when the soil can't support the weight of the animal (hoof impressions in the soil)
- Designate an area that you are willing to keep your livestock in during the winter and for short periods during the growing season when pastures have been grazed down to 3 inches. This protects pastures from being destroyed during the rainy winter season. The area is often called a sacrifice area because the vegetation will be trampled and the ground will become muddy.
- Work with your local Soil and Water Conservation District to install a heavy use area that will stay dry and keep your animals out of mud.
- Maintain a grassy area of at least 25 feet in width around the sacrifice area to serve as a filter for any runoff

"Thank You" Josh Myer

The Board of The Hamlet of Beavercreek would like to sincerely thank Josh Myer, owner of Landscapes Unlimited & Treecare Unlimited, for trimming, cleaning out and feeding the Korner Park holiday tree... the tree we light to welcome in the holidays.

Treecare Unlimited volunteered their time, equipment and expertise to "spruce up" our blue spruce and diagnosed and treated a blight problem possibly caused by the way the tree was planted that was not allowing enough water to reach its roots.

Josh has donated his company's services in the years to come as a gift to our community. The spruce looks beautiful & will be ready for the December 6th tree lighting. Please join us in celebration of the holidays with a potluck at the Grange at 5:30 p.m. and the tree lighting at 7:00 p.m. And, if you need landscaping and/or tree care, be sure to give Josh a call. He can be reached direct at 503-793-1883, or the office at 503-635-3165, or by e-mail at joshm@tclu.com. Thank you Josh!!!

Marylhurst Honors CCC Dean of College Advancement

Shelly Parini, Clackamas Community College's dean of College Advancement and Public Affairs, was recently honored with a Marylhurst 2014 Distinguished Alumni Award.

Parini was presented with the "Recent Graduate Award: School of Graduate Studies" during a special celebration luncheon held at Marylhurst University in late October. Parini was honored for her achievements including the creation of the Imagine Clackamas community engagement initiative. This initiative helped lead to the passing of a $90 million bond measure for the college.

Dr. Susan G. Carter, chair of the MAIS (MA in Interdisciplinary Studies) program at Marylhurst, expressed her excitement at witnessing a recent alumna so quickly and effectively applying her thesis work, "Appreciative Organizing," for the betterment of the community.

Parini is a resident of Happy Valley. She holds a bachelor's degree from Arizona State University and in 2012 earned a Master of Arts degree in Organizational Communication from Marylhurst University. Parini has served as CCC's dean of College Advancement and Public Affairs since July 2006.

State Park Camping Discounts to Change in 2015

Oregon Parks and Recreation Department (OPRD) has announced that it will replace its across-the-board "discovery season" discount program with targeted deals starting in 2015. The discounts are still in effect now through April 30, 2015, and reduce tent and RV campsite costs by $4 per night. The annual discount was created nearly 20 years ago, and is offered at all state park campgrounds in Oregon.

"Discovery Season has done its job," said Chris Havel, OPRD Associate Director. "It was a great way to introduce yurts to Oregonians and to encourage fall and winter camping, but we now need to move away from a 'one size fits all' discount." He cited a continuing decline in Lottery revenue as part of the reason for the move. Nearly all of OPRD's funding comes from user fees, a portion of RV licensing revenue, and 7.5 percent of net Lottery proceeds.

Before discounts, Oregon state park campsites cost $17-19 a night for tents, and $22-26 for RVs. Together with parking revenue, visitors contribute $21 million of the $48 million a year it takes to operate state parks. OPRD estimates that returning to a year round rate structure with targeted discounts could translate into an additional $400,000-500,000 a year.

Havel said that campers will begin to see a new type of discount in 2015 and beyond. "We love the idea of discounts and rewards for our customers. But we have to be much more targeted," he said. "It makes better business sense to offer incentives that attract campers to sites that would normally sit empty, instead of discounting sites that would fill anyway."

Havel said that customers have long asked for ways to make last minute decisions about camping. "With service improvements in our reservation system, for example, we can better anticipate where last-minute vacancies will be, and we can then make those spots available at a special rate." He also noted that effective January 1, 2015, customers will be able to reserve campsites from nine months to just one day before their trip. Currently, that reservation "window" is two days, not one. "It's a small change, but it means you can call on a Thursday and book your entire weekend stay."

OPRD contracts with Reserve America, a centralized online reservation service that handles 49 public and private park systems across the U.S. Customers can also reserve campsites by calling OPRD's call center in Portland at 1-800-452-5687 during regular business hours.

Oregon OSHA Announces Changes to Confined Space Rule

The Oregon Occupational Safety and Health Division (Oregon OSHA) has adopted changes to the confined space rule to include the construction industry. The new rule replaces a 2012 version that was never enforced because of concerns raised by stakeholders after its adoption. With the new rule in place, construction employers will need to comply beginning March 1, 2015.

"It's important that workers in construction have the same protections from confined spaces that exist in general industry," said Oregon OSHA Administrator Michael Wood. "Confined spaces are unforgiving. People aren't just injured in them; they are killed."

Confined spaces, such as tanks, wells, or tunnels, have limited means to exit, may contain potentially harmful material, and are not intended for human habitation. Workplace safety rules require employers to take proper precautions when their employees must work in such spaces. In Oregon, Oregon OSHA, a division of the Department of Consumer and Business Services, enforces those rules. The relatively minor changes to the general industry requirements take effect Jan. 1, 2015.

There are several exemptions in the rule, including the majority of excavation work. However, excavation work is not exempt when workers must enter a sewer space. The rule is similar to what was originally proposed in July 2014, with the only significant change being that employers must identify only their permit-required confined spaces, rather than all confined spaces.

For more information on the adopted confined space rule, go to http://www.orosha.org/pdf/notices/adopted2014/ao52014-div2J-ltr.pdf.

Judy Ervin Retires from CCC Board of Education

Longtime member Judy Ervin announced her retirement from the Clackamas Community College Board of Education on Wednesday. Ervin, who represents the Gladstone area, has served on the board since 2005.

"After many years of volunteer service at Clackamas and elsewhere, Judy will be greatly missed, but she will remain a valued member of the CCC family," said President Joanne Truesdell. "Her leadership has been integral to our success as an institution, most recently with our successful bond campaign."

A longtime advocate for higher education, Ervin served as the Oregon Community College Association board president in 2011-12. She served as a Gladstone City Councilor for 20 years and as a member of the Gladstone Library Board for 10 years.

CCC is governed by an elected board of directors representing zones within the college district. Ervin represents zone 3, which includes the city of Gladstone.

The board will begin the process to appoint a successor at its December meeting. The appointment to represent zone 3 on the board will continue through June 30, 2015, following the board election. At that time, the appointed board member may run for election for the position to fulfill the remainder of Ervin's unexpired term, which ends in 2017. Book Launch - "Planting a Future: Profiles from Oregon's New Farm Movement"

Written by Portland author John Clark Vincent, with photographs from Lisa Vincent, the book features 18 profiles of Oregon farmers and farm supporters who are helping to reshape our country's broken food system. Katherine Deumling, owner of Cook With What You Have and chair emeritus of Slow Food USA provided the book's foreword. And what's more, the authors are generously donating five percent of the book's net proceeds to Friends of Family Farmers!

At the book launch, John provided a brief presentation on the making of the book, and Katherine shared some thoughts about the food movement from a cook's perspective. Plus, FoFF's Nellie McAdams and Erinn Criswell spoke about the latest developments with FoFF's program work and how individuals can get involved.

Insurers Must Pay For Treatment of Autism, Mental Health Conditions

The Oregon Department of Consumer and Business Services, Insurance Division has issued two bulletins that require insurers to cover treatment of autism and other mental health conditions, just as insurers cover treatment for physical health conditions.

The bulletins take effect retroactively to Aug. 8, 2014, the same day the U.S. District Court for the District of Oregon ruled that Providence must pay for Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) therapy as a treatment for autism. Many Oregon families seeking autism treatment have had challenges getting coverage for ABA in recent years.

"Recent court decisions have made it clear that ABA should be a covered service when it's appropriate for the patient," said Insurance Commissioner Laura Cali. "We expect insurers to stop applying blanket exclusions in their policies and claims practices that effectively deny access to medically necessary treatment for mental health conditions."

For any health condition, insurers can make coverage decisions based on whether the treatment is deemed medically necessary for an individual patient. The bulletins clarify that insurers' policies cannot include categorical exclusions that result in broad denials of mental health treatments. And, specifically, they cannot deny treatment for ABA therapy on the basis that it is experimental or investigational.

Consumers can appeal medical necessity denials to the company - and ultimately through the Insurance Division - via an independent review organization.

The Insurance Division has the authority to issue bulletins to clarify requirements of insurance companies under the Oregon Insurance Code and other State and Federal laws. The division developed the bulletins through a public process and received feedback from consumers, advocates, insurers, and other interested parties.

Consumers with outstanding claims should contact their insurance company. They also can call the Insurance Division Consumer Advocacy Unit at 1-888-877-4894 (toll-free) or email cp.ins@state.or.us.

You can find the bulletins and more information on the Insurance Division's website at http://www.oregon.gov/DCBS/insurance/legal/bulletins/Pages/proposed-bulletin-review.aspx.

The Insurance Division is part of the Department of Consumer and Business Services, Oregon's largest business regulatory and consumer protection agency. Visit www.dcbs.oregon.gov and www.insurance.oregon.gov.

The November meeting of the Hamlet of Beavercreek took place on Wednesday, November 26, 2014. The meeting took place at the Beavercreek Grange, 22041 S Kamrath Road, in Beavercreek. The meeting began at 7:06 p.m.

There were two guest speakers for this meeting. Jennifer Hughes, Principal Planner with Clackamas County who discussed the third year of the ZDO (Zoning and Development Ordinances) Audit and Scott Hoelscher, Project Manager in the Clackamas County Planning Department, who discussed the Active Transportation Plan.

Joan Martinez, Secretary, read the highlights of the October 22, 2014, meeting which were approved by acclamation.

There were two Land-Use Applications before the meeting. A Timber Template Test for property on Old Clarke Road in Mulino. The Hamlet discussed it, but made no recommendations.

The second was for a Home Occupation Permit for property on Henrici Road for a construction business. The Hamlet voted to write a letter to the County encouraging the County to hold the line on a Level II business.

Three Land-Use Decisions were reported. The first, the long ongoing Hals Construction on Hwy 213. The Board of County Commissioners approved the requested Comprehensive Plan change, but it was appealed to the Land Use Board of Appeals (LUBA) by a neighbor. LUBA denied the application and remanded the issue back to the County.

The second, the dense development along Beavercreek Road across from the Oregon City High School. This was approved by the Oregon City Planning Department.

The third, a conditional use permit for a riding arena and horse boarding facility on Henrici Road. This was approved by the Hearings Officer with conditions. The owners do not like the conditions so they are appealing the decision to LUBA.

Bill Merchant gave a Korner Park Facilities Committee reporting that the Park is ready for the Holiday Tree Lighting that will take place on Saturday, December 6, 2014, at 7:00 p.m.

Norm Andreen reported that the Holiday Tree Lighting will be December 6th at the Korner Park at 7:00 p.m. preceded by the Grange's Christmas Potluck dinner at 5:30 p.m.

Under Old Business, the Oregon City development toward Beavercreek was discussed.

Under New Business it was announced that the Hamlet of Beavercreek has received it's 100th Facebook member "like" from Marty May.

There will be no meeting in December due to the Christmas Holiday. The next meeting will be the January 28, 2015 Town Hall Meeting.

It is anticipated that the guest speaker for the January meeting will be from Clackamas River Water.

Everyone is encouraged to attend the monthly Hamlet Community meetings and the quarterly Town Hall meetings to participate and share ideas and concerns on the issues pertinent to our community. Members 18 years of age and older who live, own a business, or property within

Hamlet Board and Citizens Concerned About Encroaching Development

The Board of The Hamlet of Beavercreek along with other citizens and another local non-profit committee has been watching Oregon City's plans to develop toward Beavercreek. Activities known to date include:

- The Beavercreek Road Concept Plan, originally consisting of over 400 acres between Loder & Henrici Roads, was appealed to the State Land Use Board of Appeals (LUBA) as it was brought into Metro's boundary as industrial land, however, planned by Oregon City as Commercial & Residential land. LUBA has remanded the plan back to Oregon City with the development of the annexed airport approved, but requiring any and all development in the area have a concept plan. The 9.7 acre application above has not been master planned as required by LUBA.
- The Oregon City buses & their maintenance will be moving to Meyers Road west of the High School on 8 acres.
- With the purchase of the original bus barn area on Maplelane Court, a local developer now owns and has plans to develop the triangle between Maplelane Court, Maplelane Road & Beavercreek Road.
- Oregon City has shared plans of a concept to develop Linn Avenue and Leland and Meyers Roads into a multimodal travel corridor.
- •Oregon City is applying for an Industrial Enterprise Zone with the State of Oregon to encourage existing and new industrial growth along Beavercreek Road south of Berry Hill Mall (waiving taxes for 3 to 5 years).
- In January the Oregon City Commission will have a new Mayor and two new Commissioners. All are pro development.

The Board of The Hamlet of Beavercreek is very concerned about unplanned growth & lack of concurrency and its impact on services, transportation (especially Beavercreek Road) and livability. Board members have been attending government, service provider and citizen meetings in order to learn, monitor, voice our concerns, suggest options and participate in protecting livable and safe community.

If you are interested in learning more, attend a Hamlet meeting. They take place on the 4th Wednesday of each month (excluding December) at 7:00 p.m. in the Beavercreek Grange. The Grange is located at 22041 S. Kamrath Road. Or, contact a Board member by calling 503-632-8370.

Our 4 Legged Friends

My Name is "CABELLA" and I'm available for Adoption!

Hello... my name is "Cabella" and I'm available for adoption. I'm a Labrador Retriever.

I'm a 6 - 7 year old spayed female and I weigh approximately 60 to 100 lbs. As you can see I'm black in color with folded ears.

Here is what I have to say for myself!

"Hello! My name is Cabella, and I am ready for a new beginning in a new home. I can be shy at first, so give me time to get to know you. A tasty snack really helps me know that you want to be a friend. I would do best with people that can give me lots of "together time" and consistency to adjust to my new home. Being a mature lady, you'll see no puppy nonsense from me! Open your heart and home to me, and I will adore you forever!"

For more information on me or other dogs available for adoption, please call the shelter at 503-655-8628 or come by for a visit and a little one-on-one. You can also see us at the Clackamas County Dog Control website at:

http://www.clackamas.us/k9man/adoptpet.jsp

The shelter is located at 13141 S.E. Hwy 212 in Clackamas, Oregon. I'm available from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m., Thursday thru Monday. I'd sure love to get the chance to meet you. "CABELLA"

See you next month...
The Editor!
