5th Annual Hamlet Happening Held September 10

This year the weather was a toasty one for the Annual Hamlet Happening (in the mid nineties). The "Happening" is a community event hosted by both the Hamlets of Beaver Creek and Mulino. Because of the weather that day it was a good thing that the event was held in a beautifully wooded setting with lots of trees to keep the temperature down. The event was held at the Hopkins Demonstration Forest off Brockway Road in Beaver Creek.

Even so, this year the turnout for the event was less than stellar. Some of the volunteers who spent many hours getting ready for this event were disappointed in the turnout.

This annual event is held to allow the communities of Beaver Creek and Mulino to get together for an afternoon of good food, good company, meeting new neighbors and finding out more about the community they live in.

Even though the turnout was less than that of last years, yours truly attended and had a great time. The organizers of the "Happening" did a great job! Those of us who attended had a lovely afternoon and met new people in the community.

I would like to thank all those who spent their day cooking, selling tickets for the raffles and all the other details that needed to be attended to including David Roses of the Hamlet of Mulino who spent the afternoon running the bus up and down the hill from the parking lot to the event site.

Friends of Family Farmers Expands, Moves to New Office

By: Bethany Monroe

Published: 8/24/2011 Molalla Pioneer

The Molalla-based Friends of Family Farmers, a statewide advocate for socially responsible farming, has recently expanded their offices and is exploring plans to open The Greenstone Center for Food, Farming and Restorative Agriculture in Molalla.

Recent grants have allowed the nonprofit to add five new staff members to their team, causing them to outgrow their storefront office on Molalla Avenue, said Kendra Kimbirauskas, board president for FoFF.

Last month, FoFF relocated their offices to the cottage on Main Street and Sweigle Avenue, adjoining the historic church building that formerly housed Greenstone Montessori School. If their plans for expansion come to fruition, FoFF will also utilize classroom and kitchen space in the church building to house community classes and other events, sharing the building with a Head Start preschool program scheduled to open there this fall.

The Greenstone Center for Food, Farming and Restorative Agriculture would offer programs to support local farmers as well as classes for community members ranging from food preservation to yogurt making and gardening.

"The goal is going to be to teach everyone who wants to learn how you can be food secure," Kimbirauskas said. "We're going to be teaching people that it doesn't take a lot of money to grow food."

To help make their dream a reality, FoFF is waiting to hear back on a nearly $300,000 three-year grant they applied for from the Meyer Memorial Trust.

"Until all the dust settles and we have the money, it's just a vision," Kimbirauskas said.

Still, regardless of whether or not they are awarded the grant, she said they plan to move forward with the project — but perhaps on a smaller scale as they secure funding.

Local nonprofits, representatives of the city of Molalla, TEAM and others throughout the community have already expressed support for the project, Kimbirauskas said, and they received help from Clackamas County Business and Economic Development in applying for the grant.

"We want this to be a community space," Kimbirauskas said.

Friends of Family Farmers was founded locally in 2005 and became a registered nonprofit in 2007.

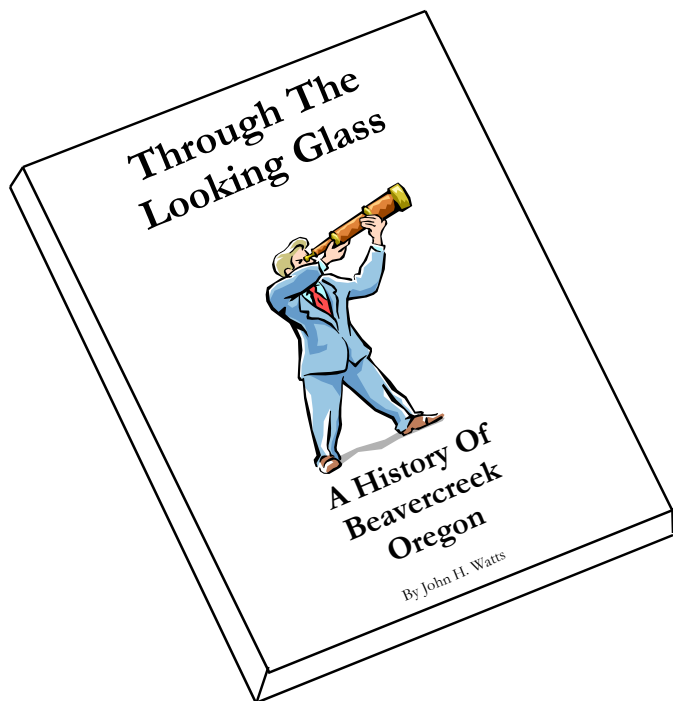

Kimbirauskas and two other FoFF staff members recently returned from Farm Aid 2011 in Kansas City, Kan., an annual concert fundraiser organized by musicians Willie Nelson, Neil Young, John Mellencamp and Dave Matthews.

Performing artists donate their talents for the concert and all proceeds benefit Farm Aid, which provides grants and other assistance to help out family farmers. FoFF has been a beneficiary of Farm Aid grants, Kimbirauskas said.

FoFF even enjoyed a brush with fame at the national event, when pop music star Jason Mraz wore their official FoFF bandana on stage. Kimbirauskas had given Mraz the bandana earlier when she met him at a press conference at the event, but was shocked to see he actually

Oregon Takes Action To Improve Health Care

Quality Corp joins Dr. Oz, RWJF, U.S. health agencies in highlighting growing movement to improve quality of care

On September 15, 2011, the Oregon Health Care Quality Corporation convened health care leaders and stakeholders to collaborate on efforts to improve the quality and affordability of health care for all Oregonians.

The convening was part of a national initiative aimed at helping Americans identify and get better health care. Quality Corp joined TV's Dr. Mehmet Oz, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation (RWJF), the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), and other organizations across the country to celebrate the Care About Your Care initiative, a month-long effort in September to spark conversation and galvanize attention about the uneven quality of U.S. health care.

Despite spending more per person on care than any other country, some people still don't get the care they should, like cancer screenings, immunizations, or - for those with diabetes - regular eye and foot care. Some get care they shouldn't - care that's wasteful and exposes them to potential harm, like unnecessary CAT scans or x-rays. And sadly some people simply get care that can harm them with preventable medical errors killing an estimated 98,000 Americans each year.

"We're proud to be a part of this national movement to improve quality, transparency and affordability in health care," said Mylia Christensen, executive director of the Oregon Health Care Quality Corporation. "When patients are informed and involved, they get better care. Through this effort we hope Oregonians will recognize the powerful role they can play in getting quality health care for themselves and their families."

September 15, 2011's convening brought together the many people and organizations that have supported Quality Corp's work to improve health care in Oregon. In addition to the 25 members of Quality Corp's Board of Directors, over 100 volunteers have served on the organization's various committees. Quality Corp's convening provided an opportunity to celebrate shared accomplishments over the past 10 years and discuss new programs to improve care for low back pain, reduce readmissions for congestive heart failure and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, and measure and report on the patient experience of care in Oregon.

In conjunction with Quality Corp, health care leaders across the country joined the conversation at simultaneous events to talk about ways to improve health care quality and offer tips to help people identify and receive good care.

"People need to understand that the quality of health care varies widely across the nation - even within communities - and there are things they can do to ensure they and their loved ones get the best care possible," said Risa Lavizzo-Mourey, M.D., M.B.A., president and CEO of RWJF. "The right fit could mean better health and a better relationship with their doctor. At the same time, it is critical that we all do our part as patients to take responsibility for our own health and care, like learning more about our illnesses, taking care of ourselves and following recommendations from our doctors and nurses."

The health leaders, backed by a broad range of groups, including the American College of Physicians, AARP, American Nurses Association, America's Health Insurance Plans and others, urged American health care consumers to do three things:

1. Look for the right care for you and your family. Find the doctors and hospitals that are the best fit for you.
2. Learn what quality care is and what's being done to improve health care in America and in your community.
3. Live better by caring about your care - confident in your relationships with health care providers, doing all you can do for your health.

A central component of the month-long effort is a new website, CareAboutYourCare.org, which includes easy-to-use resources to help people better understand what quality care is, how they can find out more about doctors and hospitals in their community and how to be more engaged as a patient. Among the resources is a list of "9 Things You Can Do to Get Better Care."

"Americans should be as prepared for a doctor's appointment as they would be to buy a new computer or TV," Dr. Oz said. "When you go to your doctor, be ready with a list of questions and a record of all medications. Take a family member to appointments so you don't miss anything and, if possible, have one doctor or nurse coordinating all your care."

Mercer, who have stormed Portland Theatre since relocating from San Diego four years ago, will take on the demanding roles of George and Martha in Edward Albee's masterpiece "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" The Clackamas Repertory Theatre (CRT) production opened Sept. 23 in the Osterman Theatre at Clackamas Community College.

The play is the winner of the Tony and New York Drama Critics Circle Awards and consistently listed as one of the 10 most important American plays ever written. "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" will close CRT's seventh season.

ferent tack than the famous film version, which appears to be about a bad marriage going to a noisy death in an eddy of dysfunction. Smith-English will bring out the strong comedic elements in the play and the depth of the relationship between George and Martha. Albee himself has said, "People who think "Virginia Woolf" was a love story are a lot closer to the truth than those who think it was a tragedy. At least there was communication in that marriage."

Elias has performed, directed and written for Artists Repertory Theatre, Oregon Children's Theatre, the Jewish Theatre Collaborative, Classic Greek Theatre and others. Mercer has performed several roles at both ART and Portland Playhouse, where she is a company member. This is their third season in a row at CRT playing husband and wife, having performed as Tevye and Golde in last season's hit "Fiddler on the Roof" and Senex and Domina in "Forum."

The couple is married in real life and had never played a married couple before being cast at CRT. Also starring are Drammy award-winner Dennis Kelly as Nick and CRT company member Annie Rimmer as Honey.

Award-winning set designer Chris Whitten will create the lights and set, and resident costumer Alva Bradford will design the costumes. Reed College theater professor Kathleen Worley will provide commentary at 6:45 p.m. before the Saturday evening performances. The lecture is free to attendees.

The show runs Thursdays through Sundays, through Oct. 9. The show begins at 7:30 p.m., Thursdays through Saturdays, and at 2:30 p.m. Sundays. Tickets run $12 through $22 and may be purchased online at Clackamas-rep.org or by calling 503-594-6047.

Rep. Kennemer Seeks Re-election to Newly-configured House District 39 Seat

Rep. Bill Kennemer (R-Oregon City, Beavercreek, Canby, Mulino) launched his campaign for re-election to the Oregon House of Representatives on Thursday.

Kennemer will run in the new House District 39, which was reconfigured due to legislative redistricting. The new district continues to represent Canby and Beavercreek, but includes a smaller portion of Oregon City and extends west to the Clackamas County communities of Estacada, Boring and Mulino.

"While I'll miss my former constituents, I look forward to meeting citizens in the new House District 39 and sharing my vision for the future," Rep. Kennemer said in a press release. "While the district has changed, our needs and priorities have not. I'll continue to hold town halls and meet with voters to discuss how we can get Oregon back on the right track."

He said his campaign will focus on improving the economy and creating jobs for Oregonians.

"It's an honor to represent the citizens of House District 39 in the Oregon House," Kennemer said. "With Oregon continuing to suffer from high unemployment, it's clear that more work needs to be done to help families during these challenging times. I'm running for re-election as an experienced leader with a record of working with Republicans and Democrats to help improve our economy."

As co-chair of the House Business and Labor Committee in 2011, Kennemer worked to improve Oregon's business environment and limit excessive regulations that stifle job growth. He recently earned a 100 percent score on bills promoting job creation and economic growth according to the Oregon Prosperity Project, a coalition of Oregon business and trade associations. Kennemer has also served as vice-chair of the House Health Care Committee, where he has supported measures to reduce the costs of health care.

"I'm running to continue the progress we've made on economic development and health care," Kennemer said. "I'll continue to push for new solutions that encourage businesses to hire. We need more jobs to have adequate funding for education, public safety and human services."

Fall Into Gardening With Clackamas County Master Gardeners

Fall into gardening with Clackamas County Master Gardeners on Saturday, October 8, at the Milwaukie Center, 5440 SE Kellogg Creek Drive, Milwaukie. From 9:30 a.m. to noon, Oregon State University Extension Master Gardeners™ will offer classes, a gardening "clinic," and soil pH testing.

Come harvest gardening tips, whether you grow ornamental or edible plants. 10-Minute University™ classes will offer essential gardening information for cleaning up the garden bed, preparing a new bed, growing a winter vegetable garden, or making new containers for fall and winter. Fall is also the ideal time to check your soil pH; adding amendments in the fall gets your soil ready for spring planting.

Learn how to:

Know your soil pH and make appropriate fall adjustments; put your ornamental garden "to bed"; extend the vegetable garden growing season;

Sow cool-season crops for harvest next spring or summer; plant containers to jazz up your garden through fall and winter; and

Grow a healthy and productive community of soil microorganisms to sustain a healthy, productive garden.

Event Schedule:

10-Minute University™ Presentations (25-minutes each)

9:30 - Making New Beds with Autumn Leaves

Want to convert an old lawn or weedy area into a garden bed? We will show you how to build a new bed this fall, using leaves and other garden clippings, for planting next spring.

10:00 - Fall Vegetable Gardening

Fall is the ideal time to plant and grow many cool-season vegetables. We will show you what to plant, how to prepare the soil, and ways to extend the growing season so you may grow and harvest these crops longer.

10:30 - Putting Your Garden to Bed

As cool and wet days kill the tops of many plants, which plants need cutting back & division and which should be left standing? We will share garden maintenance tips for trees, shrubs, perennials, and annuals.

11:00 - Container Planting for Fall and Winter

With the right plants, containers can add color and interest to your fall and winter garden. We will share ideas on how to put together containers that look good and discuss how to maintain them.

Soil pH Testing (10 am – noon): Get your soil tested for pH and receive advice on needed adjustments. For step-by-step instructions on how to take soil samples, look for the 10-Minute University™ handout, "Testing Soil pH," at www.cmastergardeners.org

Gardening Clinic (10 am – noon): Seasoned Master Gardeners provide personalized advice to your gardening questions.

Clackamas County Master Gardeners are the folks who put on the annual Spring Garden Fair, bringing together 16,000 gardeners and 200 plant and garden-art vendors. Log on to www.cmastergardeners.org for more information about other events and programs.

This event is offered in support of Oregon State University Extension Service Master Gardener Program and in partnership with North Clackamas Parks and Recreation District and the Milwaukie Center.

Molalla Area Forestland Closed Due To Fire Hazards

Nearly 13,000 acres of forestland near the Molalla River is temporarily closed to public recreational use due to extremely dry forest conditions.

Olympic Resource Management and its affiliates, ORM Timber Operating Company II, LLC and ORM Timber Fund I, L.P. (ORM), has temporarily restricted public access to all of its forestlands in King, Skamania and Lewis Counties in Washington and Clackamas, Marion, Tillamook and Yamhill Counties in Oregon. This closure includes all vehicle traffic, foot traffic, horseback riding and bicycling.

The closure will remain in effect until significant rainfall occurs, as the current dry conditions make for extreme fire hazards and threaten private and public resources,

September 11th Memorial Dedication Held

On Sunday, September 11th, at 2:00 PM Canby Fire kept a promise that the entire country proclaimed in the days following September 11, 2001. That pledge is that we will "NEVER FORGET."

It's simple to say the words, but it's much harder to keep the promise, and it was that promise started the creation of the September 11th Community Tribute Memorial in Canby.

The Memorial started off with a 10' Pentagon serving as the base to the memorial. Two 9' basalt rock columns emerge from the Pentagon base, and the rock columns transition to twin towers, which have been hand carved to create this unique symbolism. Sitting at the base of the basalt columns is a hand-laminated granite American Flag that will have "40" stars circling the number "93" to remember the 40 passengers of flight 93.

The base of the Pentagon showcases five granite insert panels, the front two sharing the words "Never Forget". The remaining three panels have the words, Pentagon, North Tower, and South Tower, and each panel has a special icon created to remember Flight 77, Flight 11, and Flight 175 involved with these events.

The Pentagon is flanked with two metal art tribute badges, one to represent the Police Shield and one a Maltese Cross, both being displayed with large black granite backgrounds.

The last element is an amazing sculpture designed and built by a local artist out of stainless steel. The sculpture will feature a dramatic scene-scape, and then emphasized the numbers "343" and "72", the number of firefighters and police officer who paid the ultimate price on September 11th. The name of every firefighter and police officer will be engraved on the sculpture, again, so we "Never Forget".

The September 11th Community Tribute Memorial has been 100% funded by donations of money, time, and materials, and is believed to be the most significant September 11th Memorial in Oregon. The dedication started at 2:00 PM and occurred adjacent to the newly constructed memorial, located at 221 S. Pine, Canby's main Fire Station.

Farm Direct Bill Signed

On August 24th, Governor John Kitzhaber held a ceremonial signing of the Farm Direct Bill. This represents a huge victory for family scale farmers in Oregon. The Farm Direct Bill, HB 2336, clarifies and codifies many definitions which relate to product sales that are made directly from farmer to consumer.

In addition, the bill allows for some minimally-hazardous products to be processed in home kitchens and sold to consumers at farmers markets or directly from the farm.

HB 2336, was just one of three bills which were signed into law with the goal of helping family farmers and ranchers remain economically viable in Oregon. In addition to HB 2336, bills that made it to the Governor's desk included the Honey Bill and a Poultry Processing Bill.

The Honey Bill directed the Oregon Department of Agriculture to establish rules for the honey sold in state and the Poultry Processing Bill recognized the 1000 limit federal exemption and allows farmers to raise, slaughter and sell up to 1000 of their own birds.

The 2011 Legislative Session was a great one for Oregon's family farmers and ranchers. Many of the issues that went before Oregon's public officials came directly from the Agricultural Reclamation Act (ARA) – A roadmap for agricultural policy in Oregon. You can read more about the ARA by going to <http://www.clackamasfire.com/documents/fireprevention/openburningregulations.pdf>

We would like to thank everyone who called their public officials and asked for their support of these bills, and everyone who came to Salem to speak directly to their Legislators. Without your efforts, we would never have seen such progress for family scale agriculture this past Legislative Session.

Particularly, we would like to express our gratitude to Representatives Matt Winegard, Brian Clem, and Peter Buckley for their leadership on behalf of small farmers and ranchers. Also, a special shout out goes to Rebecca Landis and Anthony Boutard for their leadership and tenacity in shepherding HB 2336 through the Legislative Process.

'Childhood Telemania' Show Opens in Alexander Gallery

Artist Morgan Buck will exhibit his work of recent paintings, "Childhood Telemania," in the Alexander Gallery at Clackamas Community College through Oct. 27.

The exhibit utilizes Buck's personal experiences and opinions to visually depict the effects of children who grow up in front of cable television. Buck explains, "TV confuses many children about who they actually are. Through excessive TV, children relate more to celebrities and fictional narratives than to a realistic vision of their future."

Buck is an alumnus of Clackamas Community College and a recent graduate of PNCA, where he received a bachelor of fine arts in painting. An artist reception was held at CCC on Thursday, Sept. 29, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.

in the Alexander Gallery.

The Alexander Gallery in the Niemeyer Center at CCC is open to the public from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, and during special events. Admission is free.

Remembering A Friend And Colleague

The memorial service for Clackamas County Fire District #1s Emergency Manager Kevin Donegan was held at Abundant Life Church on Monday, September 19, 2011. Thank you to the many people from CCFD1 who helped to coordinate and carry out the program for the service.

In addition, thank you to Portland Fire & Rescue, Tualatin Valley Fire & Rescue and Boring Fire District for providing coverage for our stations during the service.

Patriotic Christmas Gears Up For Another Season

By: Molalla Pioneer Staff

Published: 8/30/2011

Patriotic Christmas lives on in Molalla as locals carry on a tradition started by Molalla residents Bob and Shirley Pierce about seven years ago to brighten the holidays for troops stationed overseas.

Shirley passed away from cancer shortly after completing last year's Patriotic Christmas project, but Ed and Sherrie Thomas and Colin and Gail Kolb are keeping the program running, as promised.

Last year, the group mailed off 1,565 pounds of cookies, beef jerky, games and other gift items for soldiers in Afghanistan and Iraq to enjoy during the Christmas season. Already this year, a local Girl Scout troop has helped them send off 88 neck coolers and dozens of homemade cookies to give soldiers a summertime treat.

Now, Patriotic Christmas is gearing up for their main event – packing and shipping dozens of boxes with goodies at Molalla Moose Lodge on Nov. 6. Donation drop-off sites are located around town at Molalla Communications, Country Value, Molalla Fire District's main station, Molalla Moose Lodge, Molalla Adult Community Center and Hot Iron Salon.

Single-use cameras, pocket-sized notepads, Frisbees, Nerf footballs, cards, batteries and other items are appreciated.

Monetary donations can be dropped off at the Molalla Communications office or mailed to Ed and Sherrie Thomas, P.O. Box 172 Beavercreek, OR 97004. Make checks payable to Patriotic Christmas.

A queen-sized, floral print quilt is being raffled to raise funds for shipping costs, along with a flag wall hanging as a second place prize. Tickets are available at the Molalla Communications office for $1 each. For more information on needed donations call Ed or Sherrie at 503-632-8353.

Clackamas County Offers Farmers, Producers Surveys to Enhance Agricultural Opportunities

In order to provide an opportunity for agricultural businesses to share information about their farming operations, any barriers to business growth and their need for resources, Clackamas County has developed a survey tool.

"Clackamas County recognizes the significant impact agriculture and the horse industry have on the State and region and business and economic development has made a commitment to get to know our county's growers, producers, farmers and equine enthusiasts better," said Catherine Comer, manager of Business and Economic Development for the County. "We want to learn more about these businesses and identify where they could use economic development assistance or resources."

Information from the survey will be included in Clackamas County's Agricultural Investment Plan. The plan focuses on

The September meeting of the Hamlet of Beavercreek took place on Wednesday, September 28, 2011, at the Beavercreek Grange on Kamrath Road. There were 18 residents and guests in attendance.

The meeting was called to order at 7:05 p.m.

Chair, Norm Andreen, made an announcement that Griff newal Districts. One a citizen initiative that would require all voters to approve a Urban Renewal District and the other, a Board of County Commissioner's initiative that would require only the residents inside a proposed Urban Renewal District to vote on the issue.

The Transportation System Plan, that includes road maintenance, will be discussed and open to the public on October 13, 2011, at 150 S. Beavercreek Rd., in Oregon City. The meeting will be from 6:00 - 7:30 p.m. This is the "kick off" of the plan and the public is encouraged to attend.

What followed was a discussion on the recent improvements on Beavercreek Road. The road was brought up to City standards, but not paid for by the City. It was paid for Crooks would not be present at the meeting or running for re-election to the board in October as he had passed away several weeks ago.

Joan Martinez read the highlights of the July 27, 2011, meeting as she had not been in attendance in August to do so. The minutes were approved as read.

Bill Merchant gave a recap of the events of the August 24, 2011, meeting from his notes taken that evening. These were also approved.

The guest speaker was Jamie Damon. Ms. Damon was appointed on May 18, 2011, to fill a vacancy on the Board of County Commissioners and began serving in June. She is from Eagle Creek and has a history of being involved in rural issues. Ms. Damon shared that there will be two different ballot initiatives on the November ballot dealing with Urban Re-by the County. That stretch of Beavercreek Road was paid for with money that should have been spent on our rapidly deteriorating County roads. 90% of the County's road budget goes for the northern part of Clackamas County (the urban areas).

Elizabeth Graser-Lindsey stated that she feels the County needs to slow down on how it addresses the care of rural roads. Money should be spent to bring them up to standard instead of spending the maintenance money on short term stop gap measures.

Christine Kosinski discussed the lack of coordination between Cities and the County and the lack of follow through. It is impossible to get information on transportation on projects.

Both Jamie Damon and Bill Merchant discussed the recent C-4 (Clackamas County Coordinating Committee) meeting that was held. C-4 now has a representatives from all the corners of the County. CPOs (County Planning Organizations), Hamlet and Villages. This is a welcome addition to the past where it was mostly City mayors. One of the issues is how to coordinate services to save money.

The Hamlets and Villages have been pushing for an "ACT" which would provide a direct line of communication with the County and cities. At this time we do not have direct advocacy.

Elizabeth Graser-Lindsey was to give part II of her "Sustainability" report, but was asked to wait until next month when a projector would be available. She agreed.

There were three land use issues before those attending. A home occupation for vintage car restoration, a permit for temporary care and a Measure 49 partition. They were all recommended for approval.

Bill Merchant gave a report on the "Hamlet Happening". The committee will continue to meet during the year and decide later if Beavercreek will participate in the "Happening" next year. The idea of having the event somewhere else was talked about.

It was also shared that the County Code Enforcement Ordinance has not been working. The County had changed the way they followed up on complaints. That new system did not work and was ripe with abuse. In lieu of this the County will be changing the ordinance. More teeth will be put back in. There will be higher fines. If a citation is issued and later a permit pulled the County will track to verify compliance and make sure the final inspection is done. Individuals with multiple violations will also be tracked better.

Elections will be held next month. John Burke will be running for re-election as will Christine Kosinski. Cheryl Boffard announced her interest in running. If you are interested in running for office you need to contact Christine Roth, County Hamlet Liaison, at 503-742-5920 or e-mail her at ChristineRot@co.clackamas.or.us. Deadline is October 7.

Connie Heintz says the Holiday Tree Lighting committee needs to get together. Volunteers are needed. If you would like to help decorate the Korner Park call the Hamlet phone line at 503-632-8370 and leave your name and number.

Everyone is encouraged to attend the monthly Hamlet Community meetings and the quarterly Town Hall meetings to participate and share ideas and concerns on the issues pertinent to our community. Members 18 years of age and older who live, own a business, or property within the Hamlet area may vote on Hamlet issues. The Hamlet of Beavercreek Boundary Map is located online at http://www.beavercreekbulletin.org/Misc/Beavercreek_Hamlet_Boundary_map.pdf

The Community meetings take place on the fourth Wednesday of the month at the Beavercreek Grange on Kamrath Rd at 7:00 p.m. The Town Hall Meetings will occur every quarter. For more information, please call the Hamlet Information Line at 503-632-8370 or visit the Hamlet web site at <http://HamletOfBeavercreek.org>.

cers were called to a home in Beavercreek. Various attempts to contact the owners of the residence by family and friends were in vain and out of concern the authorities were notified.

Upon entering the residents the authorities found the bodies of the home's occupants. Griffith Crooks and his wife Sandra as well as their three dogs. The incident is still under investigation, but it has been determined that the case is a murder/suicide.

Those who knew "Griff" are deeply saddened by the news. There will be no services held. All family members have been notified.

Griff, a Hamlet Board Member; a man bigger than life, with a booming voice and a heart as big as all outdoors will be sadly missed.
