3rd "Stars in the Park" Concert Well Attended

On Friday, August 9, 2013, the Korner Park in downtown Beaver Creek was abuzz with activity. This was the evening that the 3rd Annual "Stars in the Park" Concert took place.

The artist for the evening was the Rae Gordon Band. Rae Gordon, a Cascade Blues Association's Muddy Award Winner for Best Female Vocalist, was on hand with her band to rock the park from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m.

Mother nature also decided to get into the act with a few rain drops including a little thunder and lightening off in the distance. As the concert ended a double rainbow made its appearance to the delight of those still on site. What a wonderful end to a wonderful evening!

This year had the highest attendance ever. People came prepared with lawn chairs and blankets and settled in to hear the Rae Gordon Band with its Blues and Soul music. Rae Gordon's voice has a very dynamic range and has been described in the media as "Add equal parts of Janis Joplin's pain, Aretha Franklin's soul and Grace Slick's power; mix them thoroughly, and add a big gob of goeey molasses and you have Rae Gordon's voice".

Attendees were also treated to food served by "Thelma's Grub Tub". Thelma, aka Cheryl Boffard, served favorites such as "taco in a bag" and pulled pork sandwiches.

Also on hand were Jan Wallinger and Ron Webb, owners of Beaver Creek's local winery, Forest Edge Vineyard, located on Spangler Road. They served their red and white locally made wines as well as beer by Seven Brides Brewing in Silverton.

Also on site was "Exper-Teece" Hair Design, located in Downtown Beaver Creek, who held a drawing. The winner won $100.00 worth of products and/or services.

There was also a raffle where the winner won half of the money raised. The winner won $101.00. The other half went to the Hamlet.

Parks Ordinance that will allow for visual inspections of personal items belonging to people entering the parks.

The changes take effect immediately.

The amendments change County parks rules to provide new authority for the Sheriff's Office, and other designated individuals, to perform visual inspections of personal property items such as coolers, bags and backpacks. Those refusing inspection will be directed to leave the park premises.

Administrative searches are routinely conducted for purposes other than law enforcement, such as courthouse and airport security, and at large public venues such as concert halls and sporting arenas.

Under the amended ordinance, anyone possessing alcohol on County park property without a permit – and even then only in designated reserved picnic areas and campsites – will be asked to leave the park. The amended ordinance also prohibits glass or glass bottles on County park property unless otherwise allowed by permit.

These changes were prompted by increased recreational use of the Clackamas River resulting in public safety issues and environmental concerns related to drunkenness, littering and trespassing.

Commissioners unanimously agreed that these issues had to be addressed.

"This ordinance transcends politics," Commissioner Tootie Smith said. "We were elected to govern and govern we will."

"It's time to take back the Clackamas River," said Commissioner Martha Schrader. "This is a family-friendly ordinance. People don't want to see one of our pristine rivers sullied by garbage."

"This is our backyard. It's public property and we get to set the rules to protect it from certain elements," said Chair John Ludlow.

"Our job is to protect the public and we do that through the hard work of the Clackamas County Sheriff's Office," said Commissioner Jim Bernard. "And we do that also by enacting laws that protect life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Commissioner Paul Savas added, "People have a choice. If they don't want their coolers and backpacks inspected, they can turn around and go elsewhere. People have a right to enjoy the park safely." For more information about the amended ordinance please visit www.clackamas.us

New Rules on Forest
Truffle Harvest - Requires Permit

Truffle hunting - a hobby pursued in Oregon's forests, not the grocery store candy aisle - has a new set of regulations. These fungal delicacies that grow beneath the soil's surface were designated a "special forest product" by the Oregon Legislature earlier this year. Anyone who intends to collect truffles in the forest this fall must have a permit issued by the landowner.

House Bill 2615 amended the State statute on the harvesting of special forest products, ORS 164.183, to broaden the category of "edible mushrooms" to "edible fungi," thus including truffles. Other special forest products already subject to harvest regulation under the law include firewood, cedar shake bolts, and greens such as tree boughs and salal. HB 2615 also places a requirement on individuals and businesses that buy truffles harvested in Oregon's forests to maintain a record of their purchases.

The Oregon Department of Forestry will make available new special forest products permit forms by October 1, 2014. For the 2013 truffle season, the department has prepared interim forms for landowners and buyers to use which can be picked up at any local ODF office.

Location and contact information for ODF headquarters and field offices can be found on the web, www.oregon.gov/odf.

the nonprofit Oregon Health Care Quality Corporation (Q Corp). For cervical cancer and Chlamydia screenings, the average rates of clinics providing this care were below national averages.

The Information for a Healthy Oregon report also shows that a considerable number of women in Oregon received breast cancer screenings both before and long after the United States Preventive Services Task Force (USPTSF) recommended ages. In 2009, USPSTF changed the recommended age group for biennial breast cancer screenings from 40-74 years to 50-74 years. Yet, the report shows that 26 percent of women over the age of 85 received these tests.

In addition to information about women's preventive care, Information for a Healthy Oregon also includes data on potentially avoidable Emergency Department (ED) visits and hospital admissions. The report shows that potentially avoidable ED visits decreased significantly over the last year. For the first time, the report also includes data on hospital readmissions within 30 days of a previous hospital stay. In Oregon, one in nine hospital admissions by adults was followed by a readmission within 30 days.

"Since 2008, we've played a unique role in convening our community members to develop and evolve the most comprehensive health care data and analytics in Oregon," says

Mylia Christensen, executive director of the Oregon Health Care Quality Corporation. "As Oregon continues to lead the country in health care innovation, Information for a Healthy Oregon will help demonstrate the impact of efforts to transform health care to meet the Triple Aim goals of improving overall health, enhancing the patient experience of care and reducing costs."

Q Corp is also working with local initiatives to help track the progress of efforts to improve health care. This year, Information for a Healthy Oregon examines the performance of clinics that are recognized by the Oregon Health Authority as Patient-Centered Primary Care Homes. Recognized primary care homes are accessible, accountable and offer comprehensive, continuous and coordinated care to patients and families. For women's preventive care, Information for a Healthy Oregon reveals that recognized clinics achieved a significantly better rate for Chlamydia screenings than non-recognized clinics. Recognized primary care homes also had significantly higher rates of providing well-child visits for children 3-6 years of age, appropriately using antibiotics for children with sore throats, and performing eye exams and kidney disease monitoring for people with diabetes.

Eight of Oregon's largest health plans, two managed Medicaid organizations and the Oregon Health Authority's Division of Medical Assistance Programs contributed claims data for this report. Combined, this data represents care

Thank You Forest Edge Vineyard

The Rae Gordon Band concert in the park on August 9, 2013, was a great success! A big thank you goes to Forest Edge Vineyard for stepping in at the last minute to offer adult beverages at the park venue. Vineyard owners Ron Webb and Jan Wallinder hustled around, getting the necessary permits just in time to bring their tent and set-up to the concert. In addition to offering several Forest Edge vintages, they partnered with 7 Brides Brewing of Silverton which made a number of beer selections available – there was something for every taste!

Food and beverages made a complete dinner/concert night out for the enthusiastic crowd. Thanks, Ron and Jan!

Editors Note: Forest Edge Vineyard is located at 15640 S Spangler Road in Beavercreek! See their ad elsewhere in this issue.

New Library Design: The Heart of the Matter

What do YOU want to see inside the new library?

Carnegie Park and Carnegie Library have been designated as the site of future library expansion. One big aspect of figuring out what the new library will look like is figuring out what is inside the library, how the interior space is used, and how much space is devoted to specific services.

We need your help and want your input! Please start thinking (or keep thinking) about what you'd like to see inside the new library and how you would like to see the space used. Bring your ideas to the initial public meeting on this topic to be held on Thursday, September 5th at 6:00 p.m. at the Oregon City, City Hall, 625 Center St., Oregon City.

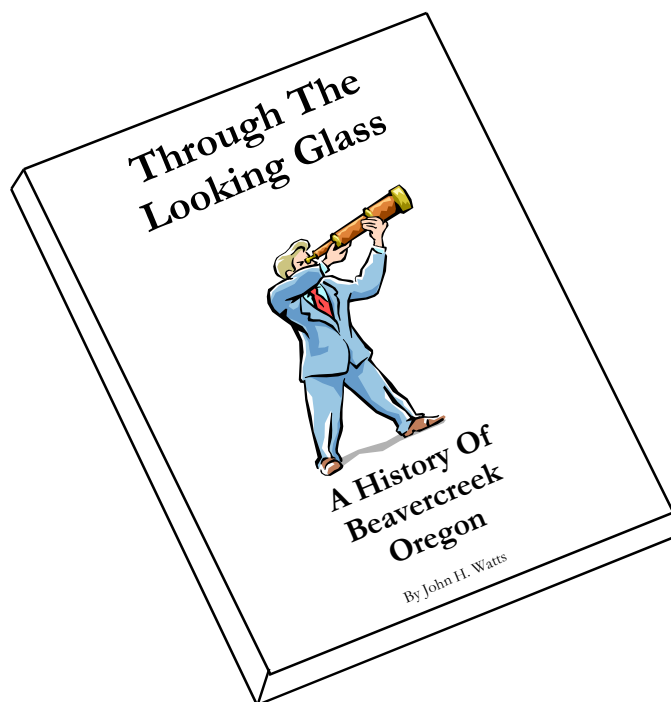

Can't make it to the meeting? Email Library Director Maureen Cole at mcole@orc.org or call 503.657.8269 ext 1010. There will be more public meetings, to be announced later.

Giant Hogweed can be difficult to identify due to its similarities with common plants like Queen Anne's lace, Cow Parsnip, and Poison Hemlock. All of these plants have white umbrella-shaped flowers and deeply lobed or lacy leaves.

There is one feature that separates Giant Hogweed from similar species causing plant lovers to want it in their yards - its size. This toxic plant is downright prehistoric in appearance and can grow from the ground to 10-15 feet in height in a matter of months. It typically produces 20,000+ seeds per

Giant Hogweed Discovered in Clackamas County

Giant Hogweed, (Heracleum mantegazzianum), has been found in urban and rural settings in Clackamas County and surrounding areas in recent years. This invasive plant causes severe burns and even blindness in some cases. It appears to be spreading throughout the region by friendly sharing of plant starts and spread by plant and can easily spread into surrounding, unsuspecting yards and natural areas.

While all plants have at least some positive aspects for people and ecosystems, this one is not worth having anywhere in Clackamas County. Due to public health concerns, local, State, and Federal weed control programs are working hard to eradicate all detected infestations from the region.

Please help control this dangerous plant by reporting any sightings to the Oregon Invasive Species Hotline (<http://oregoninvasiveshotline.org/>) or the Clackamas County Soil & Water Conservation District at 503-210-6000, or send a message to weeds@conservationdistrict.org. The Clackamas County Soil & Water Conservation District is a tax funded, conservation-focused special district that provides free control services for this and other high priority invasive species threatening Clackamas County.

Here comes Autumn!

Clackamas County Historical Society Quarterly Meeting to be Held

Thursday September 26, 2013, at 7:00 p.m. the Historical Society will be holding their quarterly meeting at the Museum of the Oregon Territory located at 211 Tumwater Dr., in Oregon City.

The Special Guest Speaker will author and mountaineer Jon Bell - "On Mount Hood - A Biography of Oregon's Perilous Peak" A Biography of Oregon's Perilous Peak tells the story of Oregon's greatest mountain, a mountain that has shaped the very land of the Northwest. The mountain itself helps create the notorious Oregon rains and deep alpine snows, it draws millions to its textbook beauty every year; it paved the way for snowboarding in the mid 1980s, its forests provide some of the purest drinking water in the world, and its snowy peak captures the attention of the nation almost every time it wreaks fatal havoc upon climbers seeking the summit. Through an engaging mix of first-person narrative, including an epic trip around the mountain on the storied Timberline Trail, and the stories of countless climbers, scientists, historians, and overall characters who have helped make Mount Hood the lively feature that it is, On Mount Hood builds a compelling story of a legendary mountain and its impacts on the people who live in its shadow every day.

Tourism grants are now available for development opportunities in Clackamas County

The 2013-14 Clackamas County Tourism Development Program grants are now available. According to Jae Heidenreich, program manager, this year's grant funds, which will be awarded to enhance the County's tourism assets, have doubled over last year to $200,000. All Tourism grant programs are funded by a County Transient Room Tax and are administered by the Clackamas County Tourism & Cultural Affairs Department (CCTCA) under the guidance of the Clackamas County Tourism Development Council (TDC).

The application process is open to public, private and nonprofit organizations whose projects benefit the greater public interest in tourism development. This year, tourism development grant applicants can seek a grant minimum of $5,000 and a maximum of $100,000 for a single project. Applicants are required to attend a grant application workshop. Two workshops will be offered in September 2013 for those interested in submitting an application.

Successful applications will likely focus on at least one of the "Three Pillars" of Clackamas County Tourism: Outdoor Recreation, Agritourism or Cultural/Heritage Tourism. Eligible projects might range from tourism-infrastructure development to employing technology to capture visitor feedback to developing new heritage experiences. Projects building on local tourism assets and highlighting Clackamas County's unique qualities will be of particular interest.

"We were encouraged by the caliber of projects that emerged from last year's streamlined grant program, and are seeking leading-edge business ideas with strong commercial potential," said Daphne Wuest, TDC board chair. "We are excited to support tourism projects that inspire overnight stays and have the strength of community energy and private/public partnership to back them up."

Pre-applications are due by October 14, and the Development Grant Application Packet must be completed in its entirety no later than November 18, 2013. Program overview, application packets and all details are available online at www.mthoodterritory.com/about-us/grants. Award decisions will be announced in December 2013.

Tourism in Oregon is defined as: "Economic activity resulting from tourists. Tourist means a person who, for business or pleasure, recreation or participation in events related to the arts, heritage or culture, travels from the community in which that person is a resident to a different community that is separate, distinct from and unrelated to the person's community of residence, and that trip requires the person to travel more than 50 miles from the community of residence; or includes an overnight stay."

Successful grant applications will showcase tourism-related projects that have the potential to become significant and self sustaining, and are aligned with the goals and priorities outlined in the TDC's 2012-17 Master Plan mthoodterritory.com/pdf/master_plan.pdf and in CCTCA

OMSI Ignites Taste Buds With a Cooking Series Beginning Aug 27

An evening to spark your thoughts and ignite your taste buds: sound appetizing? The Oregon Museum of Science and Industry (OMSI) and Portland Monthly Magazine will offer Cook For Life, a series of seasonal, health-centered cooking classes addressing the latest culinary topics and trends. Presented by Regence, the new quarterly feature will make its debut beginning August 27 at Theory eatery, where food meets science.

Upcoming Cook for Life events:

- * The Paleo Life: Tuesday, October 22, 2013
- * Raw Foods & Juicing: Tuesday, January 14, 2014
- * Cooking for Kids: Tuesday, April 15, 2014

Tickets:

Tickets are $25 dollars per person. Class includes small plates of each dish plus refreshments. 100 percent of the net proceeds will benefit OMSI.

Cook for Life is created in partnership with Portland Monthly, OMSI and Regence, with support from National College of Natural Medicine and KGW NewsChannel 8.

Clackamas County Swat Team Executes Search Warrant in Oregon City

A joint effort between the Oregon City Police Department and the Clackamas County Inter-Agency Task Force lead to a search warrant for unlawful possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

The Clackamas County SWAT Team served a search warrant this morning around 6:00 a.m. at a residence in the 13500 block of Gaffney Lane in Oregon City. No one was injured as a result of the warrant although one subject was transported to the hospital for a pre-existing medical condition. A total of five subjects were detained in the residence. Several firearms and ammunitions were seized.

Four of the subjects were arrested. Christopher Martin Hawley, 35 years old, was arrested for Felon in Possession of Firearm (X7), Unlawful Possession of certain short barreled firearm, Theft I (Stolen firearm). Scott Micaulen Thornberg, 24 years old, was arrested for PCS Meth. David Shawn Gelbrich, 31 years old, was arrested for Parole Violation. Danielle Nicole Yochum, 25 years old, was arrested for a PCS Meth Warrant.

Source system partners, ended in June 2013.

Over the past three years, the Department of Labor grant provided funding to train, place and retain Oregonians in the health care field. HOPE utilizes the Oregon Career Pathways model to deliver training for in-demand health care occupations that lead to credentials recognized by industry. By aligning trainings with existing career pathways, participants were able to upgrade existing skills to higher wage positions in the health care field.

The grant was aimed at unemployed, dislocated and incumbent workers facing barriers to employment. Participants were referred to the program by sources such as the Oregon Employment Department and WorkSource Clackamas, workforce services located at Clackamas Community College. Health Science instructors at CCC provided the instruction and training.

Participants in the program at CCC received training and were placed in jobs in health care fields including certified nursing assistants, clinical lab assistants, dental assistants, emergency medical technicians, medical assistants and others.

For more information about the HOPE grant at CCC, please contact Jodi Stapleton at jodis@clackamas.edu or call 503-594-3857. For information about training leading to employment call Worksource Clackamas 971-673-6400.

"What If Heroes Were Not Welcome Home?"

On exhibit at the Oregon History Museum August 24 - September 29, 2013

During World War II, Japanese Americans born and raised in Hood River, Oregon served heroically with the United States Armed Forces in the South Pacific and in Europe. At the same time, many of their family members were unjustly incarcerated in concentration camps on American soil. When these soldiers returned home to Oregon at the end of the war, the welcome they received was anything but heroic.

This exhibition uses first-hand accounts, photos, letters, and historical documents to show how wartime events brought national notoriety to the small community of Hood River. Visitors will be invited to make meaningful connections between the past and present--exploring the promise and reality of American democracy and equality. Exhibit curated by Linda Tamura & Marsha Matthews. Oregon History Museum is located at 1200 SW Park Avenue in the downtown Portland Park Blocks, and is open Monday - Saturday from 10 AM - 5 PM, and Sunday from Noon - 5 PM. Regular admission is $11, and is free for OHS members and Multnomah County residents. For more information please visit WWW.OHS.ORG.

OSBA Will Seek to Defend PERS Reform Bill in Court

The Oregon School Boards Association filed papers in August with the State Supreme Court seeking to join in defending against a lawsuit against Senate Bill 822, the only PERS reform legislation passed in 2013.

Betsy Miller-Jones, OSBA's executive director, said reform of the Public Employees Retirement System is a necessary step in putting Oregon's schools back on firm financial footing. OSBA proposed PERS reform legislation, Senate Bill 754, this session. Though the bill did not receive a hearing, many of its components have provided a baseline for continuing negotiations over reforming PERS.

"SB 822 does not provide the PERS savings we had hoped for," Miller-Jones said. "But because its provisions affect all of our members, and because its legal standing could affect future PERS legislation, we believe it is important that we take part in its court defense.

"We've got to reform PERS so we can place more money in classrooms where it belongs."

OSBA has filed papers with the State Supreme Court asking that OSBA be allowed to intervene in the litigation and urging the court to uphold the modifications made during the 2013 session.

OSBA continues to support the governor's efforts to call a special session this fall with the goal of passing more meaningful PERS reforms.

OSBA is a member services agency for nearly 1,400 volunteer and locally elected school board members in school districts, education service districts and community colleges. It also provides services to charter schools and their boards.

OSBA has joined with business and parent/student groups to support PERS reform. The coalition's website can be found at www.fixpersnow.org.

Tidbits from the Beavercreek Demonstration Farm

Hello from the new neighbors! The Clackamas County Soil and Water Conservation District has recently purchased the Roaring Creek Ranch in the Hamlet of Beavercreek. We are very excited to use this wonderful opportunity to practice what we preach by using the methods and conservation practices we recommend to landowners on our demonstration farm.

This has been a very exciting venture for us and every day we discover new things about our farm! Recently, we have noticed we have four apple trees with ripening fruit. Of course, we have no idea what varieties they might be. All of the trees could do with some aggressive pruning. It also wouldn't hurt to get a better idea of the varieties and when they ripen. It sounds like an opportunity for some volunteer assistance! Anyone interested should contact the Clackamas County Soil and Water Conservation District.

In addition to the vegetation, we are very interested in the wildlife on the property. Wildlife is one of the key priorities of the District, so we want to take every opportunity to evaluate wildlife habitat at the farm. We invited Habitat Conservation Biologist Elizabeth Ruther with the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife out to the farm to observe the current habitat.

What we found was that there are great opportunities for a variety of wildlife species already present on the farm. We have a mix of good and not-so-good critters roaming the place, and each one gives us clues as to how we can enhance habitat at the farm. The absence of a few species was also a good indicator of the wildlife potential if we can improve habitat.

It was great to hear that there are plenty of ways to improve wildlife habitat without reducing the ability to effectively farm the property. That's a win for everyone, and reinforces the message we provide to our landowners: farming and wildlife do not have to be mutually exclusive.

If you are interested in future volunteer opportunities at the Beavercreek Demonstration Farm, give us a call at 503-210-6000.

"The summer may be coming to an end, but the work of the Red Cross is far from over," said Darrin Greenlee, Interim CEO of the Red Cross Pacific Northwest Blood Services Region. "As you make plans for this Labor Day holiday, please also make time to give blood and help patients who depend on your lifesaving donation."

How to donate blood

Simply call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or visit redcrossblood.org to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age (16 with parental consent in some states), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Home Rescue Program Offers up to $30,000 to Homeowners Statewide

Wednesday, August 28th at noon, a new State foreclosure prevention program aimed at helping homeowners struggling to make their payments will be available. The "Home Rescue Program" provides up to a year of monthly mortgage assistance with a maximum benefit of $20,000. Program participants are also eligible for up to $10,000 to bring their mortgage current, if they are behind.

Homeowners can learn more about the program online at www.OregonHomeownerHelp.org. The website features a short eligibility questionnaire and application video to guide applicants through the process. Participants must meet income qualifications; demonstrate a 10% loss in current income, and additional criteria. Applicants do not need to be behind on their loan. It is recommended that interested applicants visit www.OregonHomeownerHelp.org before applying to become familiar with the process. Demand for assistance is high and application space is limited, so homeowners worried about making their mortgage payments shouldn't hesitate to apply.

New application slots will be available every two weeks on Wednesdays at noon until all program funds are exhausted. Applicants are strongly encouraged to apply as soon as the application cycle opens. More information about the application cycle and Frequently Asked Questions are also available on the website. If you need immediate assistance, foreclosure counselors are available statewide for confidential, free support. You can find your nearest foreclosure counselor at www.OregonHomeownerSupport.gov.

The "Home Rescue Program" has a budget of $30 million and is expected to help approximately 2,500 homeowners statewide. The program is funded by the United States Treasury's "Hardest Hit Fund", which allocated $220 million to Oregon in 2010 to administer foreclosure prevention programs. To date, the Oregon Homeownership Stabilization Initiative has provided more than $113 million in assistance to more than 7,500 homeowners. Performance reports for OHSI can be found online at www.OregonHomeownerHelp.org.

Possible Other Victims Sought After Arrest and Conviction of an On-line Sexual Predator

The Clackamas County Sheriff's Office is seeking help from the public in search of other possible victims after the arrest and conviction of an on-line sexual offender.

On August 21, 2013, 23 year old Nicholas Tyler Kienle was sentenced to 13 months in prison by Clackamas County Judge Heather Karabeika for Online Corruption of a Child in the First Degree and Sexual Abuse in the Second Degree.

Mr. Kienle intentionally sought out and met a 14 year old victim by the use of Facebook. The Clackamas County Sheriff's Office conducted a search warrant on Mr. Kienle's computer and located many images and videos of possible other unknown named victims. The Clackamas County Sheriff's Office Child Abuse Team is concerned there are other victims and asking for your help. If you know someone who has been a victim in this case, the Sheriff's Office wants to know about it.

If you or someone you know has been victimized by Mr. Nicholas Kienle please contact us using the Clackamas County Sheriff's Office Tip Line -- by phone at 503-723-4949 or by using the on-line e-mail form at <http://www.clackamas.us/sheriff/forms/tip.html> Please reference Clackamas County Sheriff's Office Case #12-08877

The public can also submit crime-tip text messages to the Clackamas County Sheriff's Office from a cell phone. All users have to do is send a text message to CRIMES (274637 on your phone keypad) -- with the keyword CCSO as the first word in the message body.

Oregon State Parks Invites Public to Contribute to Future of Salmonberry Corridor Through Master Planning Process

The Oregon Parks and Recreation Department (OPRD) will convene two public meetings in mid-September to gather input from local residents and visitors on future uses for the Salmonberry Corridor, an 86-mile stretch of land that encompasses the Port of Tillamook Bay Railway. The meetings mark the start of a yearlong master planning process which will ultimately direct long-term resource management and recreational use within the Corridor, a proposed trail, rail-to-trail, and rail-with-trail that that connects eight cities between Tillamook and Banks.

The first meeting will be held at the west end of the Corridor on Wednesday, Sept. 11th from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. at the Oregon Department of Forestry building

(located at 500 3rd St. in Tillamook). The following evening, Sept. 12th, a meeting will be held 6:00-8:00 at the east end of the Corridor from the Banks Fire Hall (located at 300 Main St. in Banks). Special accommodations to enable those with

Failed weld on Canby Ferry Results in Temporary Closure

The Canby Ferry, which returned to service in mid-July after six months of retrofitting and repairs, was recently taken back out of service for about two weeks as workers determined how best to fix a failed weld.

Inspections show that the faulty weld does not appear to be related to the recent retrofitting.

The Ferry normally transfers people and vehicles across the Willamette River between Canby and Wilsonville, from 6:45 a.m. to 9:15 p.m. seven days a week except on major holidays and when the water levels rise to 70 feet or higher.

More information about the Canby Ferry are available at www.clackamas.us/roads/ferry.html.

Are Your Auto Insurance Premiums Higher Than They Should Be?

Oregon Insurance Commissioner Laura Cali is alerting consumers that auto insurers cannot charge them more just because they dropped coverage at some point in the past. This applies to consumers who dropped coverage and didn't break the law by driving while uninsured.

"Consumers who believe they are paying more because of a legitimate lapse in coverage should call our consumer advocates and we'll look into it," Cali said. "Agents should also help their clients understand when they are required to have coverage and when they can safely drop coverage they don't need without being penalized."

Motorists might drop coverage for many legitimate reasons - they are not using their vehicle while away at college or on military service, they are using alternate transportation, or they no longer own a car, for example.

Yet, the Insurance Division's consumer advocates say consumers call regularly to say their rates increased after a lapse in coverage or that they were told their premiums would go up later if they didn't maintain coverage in situations where coverage wasn't required by law.

"We are committed to ensuring that Oregonians are treated fairly by insurance companies and agents, and we will take action against companies and agents who don't comply with the law," Cali added.

Insurance companies can require someone who is applying for insurance to explain why they went without coverage. Many companies provide a checklist so consumers can identify the valid reason that they dropped coverage.

The August meeting of the Hamlet of Beavercreek took place on Wednesday, August 28, 2013, at the Beavercreek Grange on Kamrath Road with 27 residents and guests in attendance.

There was no guest speaker. It was announced, however, that next month there will be several speakers. The speakers will be discussing Code Compliance and include Code Administration and Enforcement, the Clackamas County Sheriff and District Attorney as well as a videographer to tape the meeting for playback on YouTube.com.

Amy Manning shared that her child attends Beavercreek Elementary. Due to changes at the school district the school does not have enough books as well as other supplies for the classroom. Amy made an appeal to those present to collect box tops and soup can labels that have the "Box tops for Schools" logo and bring them to future meetings to help support the students. There was also discussion about possibly having a jar at the first Saturday Breakfasts at the Grange for attendees to place their coupons in. Amy will contact the Governor of the Grange to see if that would be possible.

The minutes of the July meeting were read and approved by acclamation.

There were two land use applications before the residents. It was discovered that one wasn't in the Hamlet's jurisdiction and assumed to be sent in error.

The second one was an application by Stein Oil, owners of the Beavercreek Chevron station, on Beavercreek Road. The application was to expand the existing building and move the commercial pump to the west side of the property. It was suggested that the County be sure all regulations are followed in the process.

Two land use hearings were also discussed. One for a property on Holly Lane that operates a ferret shelter. The application was denied by the Planning Director. A hearing was held August 22nd. The owners of the property do not know the outcome of the process at this time as it is ongoing.

The next was the denial of an application for properties on George Road in Estacada. The hearing is to take place August 29, 2013.

Next was an application to partition acreage on Steiner Road into two parcels. The request is enabled pursuant to State approval of Ballot Measure 49. It was approved subject to conditions.

A financial report was given on the Flea Market & Craft Fair held in July. A financial report on the "Stars In the Park" concert will be made available in September.

One of the outcomes of the concert was an interest in the Beavercreek Park on Leland Road and why nothing has been happening. Discussion followed to see if there was interest in the Hamlet getting involved with the property.

Christine Kosinski gave a report on the ongoing grass roots effort by residents of Holly Lane to save their neighborhood from encroachment by Oregon City. About 30 residents met with the County's Traffic Engineer. They voted on several issues. They voted that they did not want the road widened and bike lanes installed, but they would be in favor of covering the ditches and installing a gravel shoulder.

Norm Andreen thanked those who were instrumental in putting on the "Stars in the Park" concert and thanked Forest Edge Vineyard for stepping in when the original vendor for the wine and beer backed out due to technical difficulties.

Elizabeth Graser-Lindsey gave a Transportation System Plan report. She has been on a citizen advisory committee for the past two years. She reported on possible transportation improvements for our area.

Tammy Stevens announced that the Board of County Commissioners has approved the first year audit on Industrial land. Ms. Stevens believes several items are problematic as regards Goal 1 (citizen involvement) and intends to appeal the decision via LUBA. She will be doing this as an individual and not as a Hamlet Board member.

It was announced that the Small Farm School will be held again this year at CCC on September 7, 2013.

James Lindsey, local resident of Beavercreek, and a Boy Scout with Troop 139, gave his presentation to those present regarding his Eagle Scout Project which will be building a Hamlet informational kiosk for the Korner Park. He submitted plans and two materials bids for consideration. James is the son of Barry Lindsey and Elizabeth Graser-Lindsey of Beavercreek.

John Burke and Scott Stein were thanked for their recent community project that entailed the cleaning and painting of the "Hamlet of Beavercreek" sign in downtown Beavercreek. Boy, does it look better!

There was an update on the Hals property code violation progress.

A raffle was held for a car wash at the Red Barn Car wash, a hanging basket of flowers and a Powerball ticket.

The meeting was adjourned at 9:00 p.m.

Everyone is encouraged to attend the monthly Hamlet Community meetings and the quarterly Town Hall meetings to participate and share ideas and concerns on the

Murder Arrest in Oregon City

Shortly before 4:00 a.m. on August 26, 2013, police were called to the residence at 1020 Hazelwood Drive for an adult male not breathing. When police arrived it was soon determined he had died.

The deceased has been identified as Brian Romo, 42 years old. Brian lived at the residence where he was found with a roommate. Brian Romo's cause of death was from a stab wound to his chest.

Tony Lopez Lozano, age 34 has been arrested and booked at the Clackamas County jail for murder. Lopez-Lozano is being held without bail and charged for stabbing his domestic partner at their home in Oregon City.

Our 4 Legged Friends

My Name is
"CLYDE"
and I'm available for Adoption!

Hello... my name is "Clyde" and I'm available for adoption. I'm a Labrador Retriever.

I'm a 3-4 year old neutered male and I weigh approximately 30 to 60 lbs. As you can see I'm black in color with folded ears.

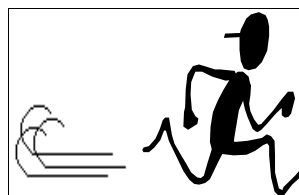

Here is what I have to say for myself!

"Hey, there. I'm Clyde and I am waiting politely for visitors. Polite could be my middle name. I know "sit", "down" and will shake hands with you. My sweet nature is quickly seen when we meet. My friendly disposition means I love all people and wag my tail to show it. Come see me in person and you'll agree that I'm a gentleman through and through".

For more information on me or other dogs available for adoption, please call the shelter at 503-655-8628 or come by for a visit and a little one-on-one. You can also see us at the Clackamas County Dog Control website at:

<http://www.clackamas.us/k9man/adoptpet.jsp>

The shelter is located at 13141 S.E. Hwy 212 in Clackamas, Oregon. I'm available from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m., Thursday thru Monday. I'd sure love to get the chance to meet you. "CLYDE"

See you next month...
