August Hamlet Meeting Recap

August was a quiet month for the Hamlet meeting as there were no land use activities or applications, and no guest speakers on the docket. The board shared that their budget was approved so they will have some money to spend on the Hamlet. In the past they've had $2,000 but this year have around $4,000 and will be discussing how to best serve the community. If you're curious to see what other Hamlets are doing, check out the Stafford Hamlet Family Fest on September 15.

The board shared an update on the Park Place Concept Plan, saying the development at the bottom of Holly Lane and Redland Road was approved by the City Commission. Citizens in Park Place have taken an appeal to the Land Use Board of Appeals in Salem, which will delay the plan. In the meantime, however, the development companies continue to tear down trees in the area.

In last month's meeting, there was early discussion about whether the inactive Carus CPO would be interested in joining the Beavercreek CPO. The board continues to gather information from the County and discuss internally what that would entail. It will probably be early next year before anything happens, the board said.

The point was again raised by the board that a critical purpose of the CPO is to give residents a voice--a group who will monitor land use applications and sound the alarm for major changes that would affect the area. The board urged residents to be involved and know what's going on--rather than wait until Oregon

The August Stars in the Park event was very well received. Unfortunately, the headline singer had to cancel as she was a finalist in a competition but Lance Kinnaird played a wide range of songs all evening along with another country singer. Vendors sold all their food, folks enjoyed beer and wine, and one lucky raffle winner went home with almost $100.

The Hamlet of Beavercreek is here to protect and preserve the rural culture of the area, and serves to help all residents. Monthly meetings are the best place to share feedback and learn how to get involved. Join us at 7:00 p.m. the third Wednesday of each month at the Beavercreek Grange.

Four seats on the Hamlet Board of Directors are up for election in October, which are currently held by Bill Merchant, Christine Kosinski, Tammy Stevens, and William Bender. Election of directors for two-year terms will be held at the Town Hall meeting on October 24, 2018 at 7:00 p.m.

Any resident that fits the following criteria may apply: 18 years old or older; live or own property or a business in the Recognized Area of the Hamlet area; be willing to volunteer time to work on projects, help represent the area, and fulfill responsibilities as described in the bylaws.

To learn about responsibilities and to get an application, email Bill@Beavercreek.org or call 503-632-7115. Applications are due in September to Bill Merchant, Vice Chair, Hamlet of Beavercreek, at Bill@Beavercreek.org or mail to PO Box 587, Beavercreek OR 97004.

Watch Out for “Grandparent” Scams

The love between a grandparent and a child can be very strong – but, ironically, the strength of that bond can actually make families more vulnerable to scam artists. The grandparent scam has been around for awhile, but the use of social media is helping to fuel fraudsters' ability to make money on it.

Here's how it works: con artists will pose as a loved one, make up a story about some urgent need, and trick you into wiring money. Only later will you find out that your loved one was never actually in danger and that the money you sent is gone for good.

As we post more and more personal information on social media, we are making the whole thing easier for the fraudsters.

About the Bulletin

Beavercreek Bulletin is a monthly newspaper by and for residents of The Hamlet of Beavercreek, Oregon. Our mission is to inform and educate residents on key issues that affect the Hamlet in order to protect and preserve our rural way of life. Names, photos and info from your travels, school information and more can be a gold mine for the scam artists. They use this info to make a more convincing story. You could get a call, email, text, or social media message claiming to be a loved one in need. The alleged victim will ask you to send money to pay hospital bills, to get out of jail, to escape a foreign country, or to help deal with an auto accident. Sometimes it will be a story as simple as the victim's purse was stolen. The scammers will urge you to keep quiet about their need for money and claim to be embarrassed in order to prevent you from looking into it further. So, no matter how urgent or convincing the story might seem—check it out before sending cash.

Here are some tips:

* Resist the urge to act right away. The story is probably going to sound drastic and urgent, but that is what the scammer is banking on. He wants you to make an impulse decision to send money. Slow down and look into the story before you send anything.

* Call your loved one on a trusted, genuine number; don't redial the number provided by the caller. You can also verify the story with someone else in your family or friend group.

* Verify the caller's identity by asking questions that would be difficult for a stranger to answer.

* Familiarize yourself with the information that your family members are sharing online.

Next Hamlet Meeting

Sept. 26 at 7:00 PM
Beavercreek Grange

Many scammers will use this information to make their stories seem more believable.

* Don't wire money or send a money order. Scammers will almost always ask for money to be sent through a money wire, a gift card, a cash reload card or the like. These payment methods are practically like giving cash. If you pay this way, you will never see the money that you sent again.

If you have been victimized by this online scam or any other cyber fraud, be sure to also report it to the FBI's Internet Crime Complaint Center at www.ic3.gov or call your local FBI office.

Parent Donation to Beavercreek Elementary

A parent reached out to shared that another parent/member of the community had donated services in support of the school and children of Beavercreek. Thank you to GreenPointe Construction for the major repairs and amazing new paint job! The school looks refreshed and ready for the 2018-2019 school year.

Growth in Oregon's Nursery Industry

The Oregon nursery industry climbed to its second-best sales year on record in 2017, according to newly released figures from the Oregon Department of Agriculture. The state's wholesale and retail nurseries tallied an estimated $947.7 million in sales during the calendar year, which was more than enough to make nursery and greenhouse crops Oregon's top agricultural commodity, ahead of cattle and calves, which were in second place at $695 million.

"The wholesale nursery industry is a traded sector that serves markets in every time zone of the United States, as well as Canada and overseas, and brings significant dollars back to the Oregon economy," said Jeff Stone, executive director of the Oregon Association of Nurseries. "More than three-fourths of what we grow in Oregon is shipped over state lines, to destinations as far away as the East Coast."

It was the Oregon nursery industry's best sales year since 2007, when $1.039 billion worth of Oregon nursery and greenhouse products were sold, just prior to the Great Recession, which caused sales to decline.

Oregon remains the nation's third-leading nursery state, behind the larger states of California and Florida, according to the most recent USDA Census of Horticultural Specialties (2014). Oregon leads the United States with more than 61,000 acres of land in nursery production. What's more, Oregon is the nation's top grower of coniferous evergreens, deciduous shade trees, bareroot nursery products and deciduous flowering trees (USDA Census of Horticultural Specialties, 2014).

Oregon has consistently been the nation's top grower of Christmas trees as well, growing $92 million worth of them in 2017 according to the state's new figures. (Christmas trees are considered part of the nursery industry, but the Oregon Department of Agriculture counts the sales as a separate figure).

In 2017, the Oregon nursery and greenhouse industry (including the Christmas tree sector) employed an average of 9,288 people and had a total payroll of $317.3 million, for an average wage of $34,159, according to the State of Oregon Employment Department.

Help Identify Thief - Leland, Gaffney, Meyers, Clairmont

On August 22, 2018, an unknown individual entered several unlocked vehicles and stole items from inside the vehicles. The majority of the thefts occurred around the Gaffney Lane, Meyers Rd, Clairmont Way, and Leland Rd areas. The suspect can be seen on surveillance videos trying door handles and entering vehicles that were unlocked.

Here are a couple reminders to help keep you and your belongings safe: Remove it - Do not leave valuables or items that could hold valuables, such as backpacks, in your vehicle so a thief can see them. Secure it - Lock your vehicle when you get out of it. Most of the thefts we are seeing are from unlocked vehicles. A good routine to get into is the "9PM Routine." At 9:00 PM every night, get into the routine of double checking that your cars and your house is locked.

If anyone recognizes the suspect in the video and pictures or has any information about the thefts they are asked to call the Oregon City Police Department Tip Line at 503-496-1616. Reference OCPD case # 18-023510. If you live in these areas and have surveillance cameras, we would appreciate if you could take a look to see if they have captured this individual or any other suspicious person during the night. <https://vimeo.com/286433541>

Cast Your Vote to Name New Park by Sep. 30

Oregon City is in the process of naming a new park in our park system. The 9.1 acre park sits at the corner of Glen Oak Road and High School Avenue behind OCHS and is scheduled to open in fall 2019. Through a public process, more than 400 names were suggested and the Oregon City Parks & Recreation Advisory Committee (PRAC) narrowed the options to four. Visit the URL to see the names and cast your vote by September 30:

Slow Down, Please! Three Workers Hit in Work Zones

There's a lot of ODOT construction happening around the state this summer. ODOT reminds us to slow down in construction zones after three construction workers were hit in active work zones in August: one worker in Oregon was killed, another severely injured the next day; a third flagger was hit in Washington State. ODOT is making efforts to light up some Oregon bridges in orange lights—the color of safety warnings—to remind people about the dangers of construction work zones. When you see orange signs, barrels, cones, and barricades, slow down and watch for road construction workers.

Brush Fire on South Ferguson Road

Around 1:15 p.m. on August 28, a call came in for a brush fire on South Ferguson Road. Crews arrived on scene to find the fire quickly spreading and threatening the home on the property. The firefighters were able to get the fire under control within 30 minutes with minor damage to the home. The fire burned about one acre around the perimeter of the home. There were injuries were reported.

Fire investigators determined the cause of the brush fire to be that of a cigarette that was not completely extinguished. Clackamas Fire District # 1 would like to remind everyone to make sure cigarettes are completely out before discarding. To ensure they are extinguished, soak them in water before discarding in the trash.

Checklist for Fire Prevention

Human caused wildfires burned 228,000 acres in 2017. The Oregon Department of Forestry responds to 30 human-caused fires in a single week in August; one burned over 20,000 acres. Causes include vehicles (faulty exhaust systems, overheating), illegal abandoned campfires, target shooting, and illegal debris burning.

“Preventing wildfires is every Oregonian’s responsibility, and there has rarely been a more critical time to do your best to keep wildfire from occurring,” said OEM Director Andrew Phelps. “Common everyday activities such as mowing the lawn or pulling your vehicle off to the side of the road may start a wildfire in these dry conditions.”

This year, wildland fires have had significant impact on many rural communities, as well as local businesses who rely on welcoming and serving vacationing Oregonians and guests from around the world during Oregon’s summer season.

Oregon’s Office of Emergency Management has compiled these tips, gleaned from fire-response agencies, to mitigate human-caused wildfires:

- * Mow before 10 a.m., but never when it’s windy or excessively dry. Lawn mowers are designed to cut lawns, not weeds or dry grass. Metal blades striking rocks can create sparks and start fires.
- * Check Keep Oregon Green for current conditions and restrictions in your area, and always keep fire-fighting tools on hand.
- * Wildfires sparked along roadways may be caused by traveling motorists. Make sure your vehicle is properly maintained, with nothing dragging on the ground.

- * Maintain proper tire pressure; driving on exposed wheel rims will throw sparks.
- * Properly maintain brakes; brakes worn too thin may cause metal-to-metal contact which can cause a spark.
- * Practice safe towing. Check for dragging chains, use appropriate safety pins and hitch ball to secure chains.
- * Don't drive your vehicle onto dry grass or brush; hot exhaust pipes and mufflers can start fires you won't even see until it's too late.
- * Carry a fire extinguisher in your vehicle and learn how to use it.
- * Maintain a defensible space around your home
- * Remove dead trees to reduce wildfire risk

As the fires and smoke subside, all Oregonians can support local businesses by visiting fire-impacted areas for vacations this year," said Travel Oregon CEO Todd Davidson. "Not only will we have the world-class experiences we cherish, we'll have the added pleasure of knowing we're supporting the recovery of our fellow Oregonians."

Marine Board Seeks Public Comment on Towed Water Sports

The Oregon State Marine Board seeks written public comments on a proposed definition for "towed water sports." The proposed definition will be used in local Boat Operation rules in Chapter 250. Where applicable, the agency is proposing to amend 10 MPH restrictions in local Boat Operation rules to include towed water sports. Many local Boat Operation rules were adopted between 1960 and the 1980's and since that time frame, towed water sports have evolved. Activities such as wake surfing and tubing are capable of being conducted below 10 MPH. A towed water sports restriction is needed to support the current regulations, enhance safety and reduce boater conflict in light of changing boating use and technology.

Additionally, the agency is proposing to repeal stand-alone Boat Operation waterway rules and re-adopt and alphabetize the rules within the County in which they are located. The goal of this proposed rule action is an attempt to increase the ease of finding the appropriate regulation for a waterbody by local marine enforcement and the public.

The proposed rule amendments are separate and independent from the open rulemaking for statewide wake sports operation and are not related to legislative work on the Willamette River in the Newberg Pool.

Written comments will be accepted until September 30, 2018, by 5 pm and can be submitted via email to osmb.rulemaking@oregon.gov or by U.S. mail to: June LeTarte, Administrative Rules Coordinator, Oregon State Marine Board, 435 Commercial Street NE, Suite 400, Salem, OR 97301. Comments via telephone will not be accepted. To view the proposed rule language, visit <https://bit.ly/2C1biQW>.

STI Epidemic in Clackamas County

Clackamas County Public Health officials announced Thursday the rate of three sexually transmitted infections (STI) has skyrocketed in the last five years, and are declaring it an epidemic.

According to the Public Health Impact report released today entitled, Public Health Impact: Chlamydia, Gonorrhea, and Syphilis Rates are Skyrocketing in Clackamas County, from 2012-2016, chlamydia rates in the county increased 26 percent, while rates of gonorrhea increased 162 percent. From 2007 to 2016, syphilis rates in the county have increased a dramatic 1,334 percent. Officials also found that more than 25 percent of chlamydia cases occur among teens ages 15-19, while almost 70 percent of all chlamydia cases occur in women.

For more information, read the full Public Health Impact report at <http://bit.ly/ClackCoSTIreport> or visit the Clackamas County Public Health Division's website at www.clackamas.us/publichealth. For more information regarding STI prevention and treatment resources and services, individuals should contact their primary health care provider or visit the Clackamas County Public Health reproductive health webpage at clackamas.us/publichealth/reproductive.html.

Enroll in New County Emergency Notification System

On September 1, #ClackCo will upgrade how it communicates with residents during times of disaster by replacing its emergency notification software system. All residents are urged to enroll, or reenroll, at www.clackamas.us/publicalerts.

By providing contact information, county residents can opt-in to receive critical emergency messaging via email, phone call, and text during times of disasters. Important messages that could be relayed include notices to evacuate, shelter-in-place, shelter locations, and other extremely important information.

The county will not use any registered #ClackCo Public Alerts contact information for anything other than these emergency notifications.

All residents are strongly encouraged to enroll in this new system. Those residents enrolled in the previous system – the Clackamas County Emergency Notification System, or CCENS – must re-enroll themselves in the new system in order to receive future messages.

audience, these stories. By promoting family stories, rich cultural heritage is passed down to future generations while educating Oregonians about the social and economic impact of Oregon agriculture.

At the annual awards ceremony at the Oregon State Fair, families from across the state received recognition for operating as Century or Sesquicentennial (150-year) Farm or Ranch. Twelve farms and ranches from eight different counties were honored this year as Century Farms or Ranches and two farms reached Sesquicentennial status, bringing the total number of Oregon Century Farms and Ranches to 1,212 & Sesquicentennial to 41.

Local DeLano Farms was honored this year, founded in Clackamas County in 1916 by Hatsil O. DeLano. Applicants are Karen DeLano, Sharon DeLano, and Renata Squier. Hatsil purchased approximately 56.75 acres in 1916 that is referred to now as the "Homeplace." He moved his family, two daughters and two sons and wife Nancy in 1917 to the land. The family sold milk to the local creamery from their dairy cows as this was the main source of income for the farm at this time. They sold fryers, lettuce, asparagus, and other farm produce at the Yamhill Street Farmers market in Portland in the 1930's. Son Howard would hitch the family horse Queenie to the Studebaker wagon and leave for Portland at 3 AM they sold fryers, lettuce, asparagus and other farm produce.

After Hatsil's death in 1956, Howard returned to the farm and bought it from his mother Nancy. He brought his three children and his wife Margaret to the farm. They raised sheep and cattle in addition to the hay for the animals. The added to the farm by adding acreage throughout their years. Their daughter, Karen, moved back to the farm in 1984 and in 1987 Renata Squier was hired as a farm hand. In 1994, Howard and Margaret, built a horse barn and arena. Karen and Rennie managed a boarding and training program in addition to raising purebred Lipizzaner horses. Howard continued to purchase adjoining lands to expand it to its current size of 216 acres. Today, Karen continues to run the horse barn business and Rennie continues raising the Gelbvieh cattle and hay on the farm. Karen and Sharon are granddaughters of Founder Hatsil O. DeLano.

Meetings for Forest Land Owners in September

If you own forest land, you may want to watch and/or provide public comment during two meetings happening this month:

Committee for Family Forestlands will meet Tuesday, Sept. 11 from 10 a.m. to noon. The meeting will be via conference call and hosted in the Clatsop Room of Building C on the Oregon Department of Forestry campus, 2600 State Street in Salem. The committee will receive updates about: Recent work of ODF's Private Forests Division; The 2018 fire season; The Forest Zone Dwelling Allowance; Wildlife food plots.

Public comments will be accepted near the start of the meeting after approval of the minutes. The 13-member committee researches policies that affect family forests, natural resources and forestry benefits. Based on its findings, the committee recommends actions to the Oregon Board of Forestry and the State Forester. You can find more information at <https://www.oregon.gov/ODF/Board/Pages/CFF.aspx>

Oregon Board of Forestry meets on Sept. 5 at 9 a.m. and run through approximately 4:30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the Tillamook Room, Administration Building C, at the Oregon Department of Forestry Headquarters, located at 2600 State St., in Salem. Public comment will be accepted on all agenda topics. There will also be time for public comment at the start of the meeting for topics not on the agenda. A livestream option will be available for those who wish to view the meeting remotely. Details for accessing the livestream will be available at <https://www.oregon.gov/ODF/Board/Pages/BOFMeetings.aspx>.

Join the 30 Days, 30 Ways Preparedness Challenge

September is the thirteenth annual National Preparedness Month which means that public safety agencies are busy working on a number of events to ensure that their communities are educated, informed and ready to face any type of crisis situation. This year's national theme is "Disasters Happen. Prepare Now. Learn How!"

Take action as part of an online social media game called the 30 Days, 30 Ways Preparedness Challenge which has its own website. Game rules can be found at www.30days30ways.com.

Being prepared for emergencies should be as common as wearing your seatbelt, and yet nearly every emergency preparedness survey conducted over the past decade indicates that 40-80% of people are unprepared to face certain hazards.

Players are given a daily challenge at 7:00 a.m. PDT each morning. Players may submit replies to each of the tasks involved throughout the month to either Facebook, Twitter, or by email. Players can choose to play as many days as they would like throughout the month. Players may also catch up and complete past tasks for the month if they miss a day. All tasks will be short and will not require a significant amount of time to complete. This year's challenge will also provide opportunities for players to "Level Up" and recruit "Allies" to take the challenge with them.

Submissions will be reviewed for their creativity, relativity to the task and its evident popularity online. Thanks to generous sponsors, winners will be selected and rewarded with gift cards to Amazon in October.

This game sparks great conversations and is a wonderful platform for neighborhoods, scouts, schools and workplaces. We encourage everyone to take the 30 Days, 30 Ways preparedness challenge!

Community Grants, Awards & Opportunities

Volunteer to Help Homeless Veterans. We're looking for volunteers who want to lend a helping hand to the Clackamas County Veterans Village. We're in the final stages of preparing 15 sleeping pods for homeless veterans, but we need volunteers who have experience in painting, light construction and caulking. Volunteers can sign up to help on Sept. 1 or Sept. 8. Volunteers must register for this event by calling Kevin Ko, Housing and Community Development Manager, at 503-655-8359. www.clackamas.us/transitionalhousing

Volunteer as a Rep Payee. Assist older adults and individuals living with disabilities who need help with budgeting, balancing checkbooks, or bill paying. Help people living with limited income/assets who often have no one to help them. Money Management Program volunteers make it possible for our clients to live independently, protect them from financial abuse and preserve their dignity. This service is free to eligible individuals. Volunteer positions vary in flexibility and can occur in our office or at home, depending on the position. Learn more at our website: www.clackamas.us/socialservices/money.htm I, call 503-650-5623 or email ommp@clackamas.us.

Volunteer as a Victim Advocate. As a Victim Advocate, you will have the unique privilege of providing crisis intervention and follow-up support to people who are going through trauma caused by crime. Classes begin in September. Learn more at bit.ly/ClackCoVictimAdvocate

Oregon Farm Bureau Calendar Contest (Due 9/15). Oregon Farm Bureau (OFB) invites all photography enthusiasts to enter their best images of Oregon agriculture to the annual OFB Calendar Contest. Twelve selected photographers will have their work featured as month images in the 2019 Oregon's Bounty Calendar. Winners will receive a photo credit in the 2019 calendar, which is mailed to 67,000 Farm Bureau members, and copies of the calendar. Everyone who submits an image will receive a complimentary copy of the calendar ($20 value), provided they include their mailing address. Find photo specifications and contest rules at www.oregonfb.org/calendar.

Workplace Safety, Health and Training Grants (Due 10/5). Oregon OSHA is accepting grant applications for the development of innovative workplace safety and health training programs. The agency, a division of the Department of Consumer and Business Services, encourages unique projects such as mobile apps, videos, or online educational games to engage workers. The training grants will focus on programs that target a high-hazard Oregon industry, such as construction or agriculture, or a specific work process to reduce or eliminate hazards. Any employer, labor group, school affiliated with a labor group, or nonprofit organization may apply. Applicants may request up to $40,000 per grant project. Learn more at <http://osha.oregon.gov/edu/grants/Pages/default.aspx>. For more information, contact Teri Watson at 503-947-7406 or teri.a.watson@oregon.gov.

Boots to Business Reboot Course for Vets

September 5, 8:00am-4:00pm
Harmony Community Campus, Harmony West, Room 130
7726 SE Harmony Road, Milwaukie

CCC's Veterans Education and Training (VET) Center and Small Business Development Center (SBDC) are partnering with Veterans Business Services and the Small Business Administration to help veterans get the skills they need to start their own businesses. Veterans are invited to attend a free Boots to Business Reboot course. They will learn the steps, stages and activities needed to launch and grow a small business as a post-military career. The course will be facilitated by advisors from the Small Business Administration and SBDC. After the workshop, veterans are invited to stay for a free networking event until 6 p.m. Organizations from around the state will be on hand to help veterans develop ongoing relationships for mentoring, technical assistance and professional business services. To register for this event, visit <https://sbdcbusiness2biz.bpt.me/>. For more information, email Brent Finkbeiner at bfinkbeiner@VeteransBusinessServices.us. For more information about veteran services at CCC, visit www.clackamas.edu/veterans.

World Suicide Prevention Day

September 10, 6:00pm

Providence Willamette Falls, 519 15th Street,
Oregon City

Join Clackamas County and Clackamas Art Alliance to kick-off the Ask the Question Project, an art exhibit designed to build awareness about the impact of suicide and illuminate hope for recovery through portraits and interviews of suicide attempt survivors.

RSVP at <http://bit.ly/ATQSept10>

Commissioned artists Julie Keefe and Mic Crenshaw will share their experience of interviewing and photographing suicide attempt survivors, who courageously shared their stories. We will also welcome keynote speaker Dese'Rae L. Stage, founder and creator of Live Through This - the largest catalog of attempt survivor narratives in existence (www.livethroughthis.org).

Sept. 10, World Suicide Prevention Day, is a day when mental health advocates, prevention organizers, survivors, allies, artists and community members unite to promote hope and remind our community that everyone can play a role in suicide prevention. This important project is one of many ways we are breaking down the stigma surrounding suicide.

Ask the Question Project was made possible in part by grants from Oregon Humanities and the National Endowment for the Arts. The exhibit will be showcased in various venues throughout Clackamas County beginning in September 2018. To learn more about the project, visit bit.ly/atqproject.
