Community Spotlight: Elizabeth Graser-Lindsey

Elizabeth Graser-Lindsey moved to Beavercreek in 1996 to be near her family. She and her husband Barry own a farm and have been raising and promoting heritage breeds including San Clemente Island goats, Kiger mustangs from Southeast Oregon, and White Wyandotte chickens. Growing their own food is also a passion because they believe that "home-grown food is love made delicious, nutritious."

Elizabeth and Barry appreciate the rural beauty of the area, and work to protect native plants and forest on their property. Recently, they've been focused on sustainability projects for the farm such as a highly insulated roof, a home heat pump, and a composting toilet. They get inspiration for new projects from Barry's green construction work, as well as keeping up with weatherization, passive house, and sustainability home improvement ideas.

Elizabeth loves caring for her family and goats, praying, and following politics and public issues from the international to local level. She has been highly active in the community for the past 20 years, saying that "working for Beavercreek's livability and protecting its rural nature has been my primary hobby for the past two decades, especially through legal appeals to keep local government honest." Elizabeth recently ran for State Representative for House District 39, and has been a regular attendee of Hamlet meetings.

She draws from her experience as a professor of agricultural meteorology and climatology to serve the community by focusing on issues affecting the climate. "I would like to help our community be sustainable to protect our own and our families' future," Elizabeth said.

She is grateful to the Hamlet of Beavercreek and the Beavercreek Grange for hosting community events to bring people together, and to the Boy Scouts and churches for serving the local community. "In our modern times, when we tend to get out of touch and out of connection, our community is benefited by these activities and by all of our participation, and we could use more," said Elizabeth. "I am hoping that my daughter and her fiancé can get involved with getting a Beavercreek dance going and it would be nice for this to have a sponsor."

She remains active in her church helping to conduct the service, and serving in the Sunday School. Elizabeth was also trained by the county as an Energy Steward and would like to share with interested groups in our area. Get in touch with her at egraserlindsey@gmail.com.

Thank you, Elizabeth, for your decades of service to the Beavercreek community!

January Town Hall Meeting Recap

At the top of the meeting, chair Tammy Stevens announced that Christine Kosinski will step down from the board of directors after 12 years of service. Christine was one of the Hamlet's founding board members, and has vigilantly focused on transportation and landslide issues that affect our area. Jessica Sernach is joining the board to take on the duties of Corresponding Secretary and Speaker and Christine will continue on as Speaker Emeritus, presenting occasionally on similar issues. Next month's issue will feature a spotlight on Christine. Please join us in thanking Christine for her dedication and service to the community of Beavercreek.

This month's guest speaker was Christina Robertson-Gardiner, Senior Planner for the City of Oregon City, to discuss next steps for the Beavercreek Road Concept Plan (BRCP).

Elizabeth with one of her San Clemente Island goats.

Background can be read here <https://bit.ly/2CSRgFv> and be sure to sign up for the new Hamlet newsletter (hit "Subscribe" on top right of that page). The BRCP planning process started in 2002; a vision plan was created with community input and accepted in 2008; and in 2016 the plan was re-adopted after legal review. The City's next step is to take the high-level vision and determine how to implement it with current zoning and development and/or determine what changes need to be made to allow for development.

At a glance, BRCP includes development of the 453-acre area across from Clackamas Community College (CCC) to include a mix of 1,000 to 1,600 housing units (primarily duplexes and triplexes), and commercial and industrial spaces to attract 5,000 jobs. What's driving the plan is the City's need to accommodate local businesses that want to expand but currently cannot within city limits (Benchmade, for example), as well as conversations the City has had with CCC, Oregon City High School, the Chamber of Commerce, and others on how to create a "pipeline" of job opportunities for students who want to remain local. Plan documentation is available at <https://www.orcity.org/Beavercreekconceptplan>.

During the planning process, the City focuses on the "how" - codes, permitted uses, etc. - while the property owners focus on the "what"

and “when” - access to services, type of development, etc. Complete development will likely take 20 years.

Today, the site is not zoned for urban development so the City will “adopt new zoning maps,” said Christina. “We will be looking at amendments to the development code to support the plan, and then everything else is up to the individual property owners.” Property owners ultimately determine if and when they wish to develop--they may annex to the City, rezone, do a development review, or do nothing. A resident asked whether the City can force an annexation, and Christina said “yes, but in my 17 years with the City, they do not like the force annexations.”

A resident with property in the BRCP area said she had not been contacted by the City, and that zoning from 2002 or 2005 was no longer accurate. She also indicated that different and conflicting information was presented at the Caufield Neighborhood Association with regard to development and timelines. Another said that the plan shows traffic being re-routed through yards and the private Old Acres Road. Residents asked a range of questions concerning transportation and congestion, water and draught, sewer services availability, school capacity, and access to emergency services as it relates to congestion on Beavercreek Road.

System Development Charges (SDC) were mentioned as a way for the County to pay for improvements, but another resident suggested that SDCs won't cover even basic improvements for the failing roads, and certainly would not cover increased traffic loads due to new development. Another resident shared that 37,000 people moved to Clackamas County in the past year, with two million in the region. “Growth is occurring, and the best thing we can do is manage it to the best possible outcome.” The key takeaway is that BRCP is moving forward, and providing input and testimony is the best way to ensure it is implemented in the most advantageous way for area residents. The City is hosting several public meetings where residents can provide input with the next one on Tuesday, April 9, at Oregon City High School (see Local Events Calendar for details). Additionally, each resident is allowed three minutes for oral testimony at public hearings and written testimony can be submitted at any time to Christina at crobertson@orccity.org. She indicated that residents are welcome to reach out to her anytime with input, and can request to be included on a mailing list for direct updates.

The Hamlet shared one land use application for Radsford View Lane requesting a partition to divide the subject property into two parcels, adding one new home site. Attendees passed almost unanimously with one abstaining.

Beavercreek Elementary is exploring options for a bigger parking lot on Steiner Road to allow double the amount of traffic and ideally reduce congestion on Beavercreek Road during pickup and dropoff times. Also being discussed is a left-hand turn lane from Steiner onto Beavercreek to keep traffic flowing.

A public hearing for the Clackamas County Vehicle Registration Fee is happening February 7 at 10 a.m., and February 21 at 6 p.m. at the Clackamas County Public Services Building. Finally, the board shared a brief update on whether Carus CPO would join the Hamlet, saying meetings are taking place between relevant parties and that they'll know more by the summer time frame.

The Hamlet of Beavercreek is a volunteer-run community group that exists to protect and preserve the rural culture of the area. Monthly meetings are the best place to share feedback and learn how to get involved. Join us at 7:00 p.m. the fourth Wednesday of each month (except for December) at the Beavercreek Grange.

A Library of Things is Coming

In partnership with Clackamas County's Sustainability and Solid Waste program, your Oregon City Library is one of eight county (LINCC) libraries launching Library of Things collections in 2019.

A "Library of Things" is a collection of non-standard items housed at a library. In addition to checking out books, eBooks or a DVD for movie night, these libraries are planning to make a variety of new "Things" available to check out, such as novelty cake pans, musical instruments, board games and more!

"Our libraries are always looking for new and innovative opportunities to stimulate the imagination and promote lifelong learning, particularly where money, space or other issues may hinder a person's ability to do so otherwise," said Sarah McIntyre, director of the Sandy & Hoodland Public Libraries. "We're excited to join this growing movement among libraries."

Hillsboro Public Library opened a Library of Things in 2015, starting with board games. It now hosts more than 200 items—including an air fryer, karaoke machine, and VHS to DVD converters. This past summer, Beaverton City Library also opened a Library of Things. "We don't need a lot of space to house these items because they're in such high demand, they're always checked out," said Michele Caldwell with Beaverton City Library. To manage demand, many libraries have multiples of popular items.

A Library of Things also helps promote a more sustainable community. "These collections support a growing trend of people downsizing and decluttering their lives from the "stuff" we tend to accumulate," said Stacy Ludington with the Sustainability and Solid Waste program. "It takes natural resources such as land, water, fossil fuels and metals to grow and manufacture the items people buy. However, if 10 people share one item, the energy and resource consumption needed for everyone to enjoy it decreases significantly."

The library is encouraging residents to take a survey and tell them what you would like to check out in a Library of Things. The survey is linked here - <http://bit.ly/2Uri81G> - or you can fill out a paper form at your local library.

Lena Tucker Selected to be Deputy State Forester

The Oregon Department of Forestry today announced the selection of Lena Tucker as the next Deputy State Forester. Tucker follows Nancy Hirsch, who retired from the position in December. Under the department's current organizational structure, the Deputy State Forester serves as the Deputy Director for Operations, overseeing the agency's operating programs in Fire Protection, Private Forests, and State Forests.

Tucker joined the department in 1994. She brings a range of experience from geographic areas throughout Oregon and has worked in all of the department's program areas, including Fire Protection. Most recently she served as the agency's Private Forests Division Chief, where she focused on implementation of the Oregon Forest Practices Act, forest health, technical assistance programs to help private forest landowners, and the Urban and Community Forestry Program. She earned her bachelor's degree in forest management from Northern Arizona University. Tucker, who lives in Sweet Home, Ore., is a member of that city's Tree Commission and has been involved nationally with the Sustainable Forestry Initiative (SFI) for over a decade. She is also a Certified Forester through the Society of American Foresters.

Under an existing transition plan, Tucker will take over full responsibility for the position on July 1, 2019.

Business Oregon Issues Request for Proposals to Drive Industry Growth

Business Oregon and the Oregon Innovation Council (Oregon InC) are soliciting a second round of proposals to fund discrete projects to support industry growth. The projects should remove barriers to research and development, support product development and testing, increase technology commercialization, or advance other aspects of industry innovation.

The goal is to support the growth of emerging and potentially high-value industry sectors, with three sectors in particular identified as priorities:

- Active Lifestyle: digital health, apparel and outdoor gear, wearable technology
- Advanced Manufacturing: metals/advanced materials, chemicals/processes, bioscience
- Natural Resources: agriculture technology, wood products, food/beverage

High technology is certainly a theme that crosses all of these industries, which includes smart technology, clean technology, and data/analytics. Projects are highly encouraged from these sectors although it is not required that projects fit into these sectors. The first round of awards was announced in December 2018 and consisted of three projects.

For this second round of proposals, Oregon InC has approximately $2 million remaining for HIOP grants, to be disbursed through Business Oregon. Projects are anticipated to last from 6 to 18 months. All projects are expected to support the growth of an industry, not an individual business. Proposals that demonstrate benefits for just a single business will not be considered. Consortia of industry partners are encouraged to apply. Project funds are

New Domestic Violence Law in Effect

An important Oregon law change on Jan. 1 elevates strangulation during domestic violence to a Class C felony. County's leaders, lawmakers and advocates see this change as long overdue. Free/Reduced Cat Spay and Neuter in February

February is a good time to spay/neuter cats before the spring breeding season. Feral Cat Coalition of Oregon (FCCO) is a nonprofit spay/neuter program for feral (frightened), stray (lost or abandoned) and pet cats. They are offering free spay/neuter services for feral and stray cats in February. The last week of February they have specials for pet cat spay/neuter services.

Individuals who are feeding feral or stray cats qualify for this special offer, regardless of income or where they live. Services include spay/neuter surgery, vaccines, flea treatment, pain relief medication and an ear-tip for identification. FCCO has humane live traps available to safely catch and transport cats and instructions so even if you haven't trapped

Clackamas County Deputies Recognized During 2018 Awards Banquet

On Dec. 5, the Oregon State Sheriffs' Association (OSSA) recognized several Clackamas County deputies -- and Sheriff Craig Roberts -- during its 2018 Awards Banquet in Bend.

Deputy Scott Meyers was honored as OSSA's "SAR Deputy of the Year." The award recognized Meyers' long career as a Sheriff's Office Search & Rescue Coordinator, for which he has received commendations from agencies and search-and-rescue volunteer organizations from around the state. Over the years, he has also received numerous commendations from families after SAR missions. They praise him for taking the time to get to know people. They praise him for putting them at ease during searches. And they praise him for making himself available -- and for helping the sometimes distraught relatives of a lost subject understand the complexities of a search-and-rescue mission.

Deputies Olson, Russell and Zacharkiw were recognized for their heroic actions during a dramatic Sept. 30 CPR rescue of an infant who stopped breathing at Clackamas Town Center. The incident made the national news, and a week later the baby's parents invited Deputies Zacharkiw, Olson, and Russell to visit OHSU and take a group photo with the infant in the ICU.

Members of the team were recognized for their heroic actions during a Dec. 26, 2017 shootout against a heavily armed man who sprayed several patrol cars with automatic rifle fire.

Clackamas County Sheriff Craig Roberts was also honored as OSSA's "Sheriff of the Year." The award recognizes a long career of service that includes programs and initiatives that have impacted law enforcement statewide. Sheriff Roberts was also named President of the Oregon State Sheriffs' Association for the 2019 term.

"He deserves consideration for this honor, not only because of his long and successful history with our own department, but because this nomination follows a remarkable run of accomplishments — especially over the past few years — that helped deputies and citizens statewide," wrote Hoy in the nomination. This has included chairing the Oregon Task Force on School Safety; championing the passage of HB 2763, the "Veterans' Pay Bill"; championing mental-health training; and targeting abuse by helping launch initiatives such as the National Family Violence Warrant Sweep, A Safe Place Family Justice Center, and the Child Abuse & Family Violence Summit.

"Sheriff Roberts is dedicated to improving public safety not only in Clackamas County, but also throughout the entire state and across the country," wrote Hoy. "His motto — and the motto of the Sheriff's Office — is 'Working Together to Make a Difference.' Throughout his entire career, especially during his terms as sheriff, Sheriff Roberts has followed that motto. He has the unique ability to bring together diverse groups of professionals to achieve common goals to improve the community and citizens he serves."

Oregon Air National Guard Welcomes New Commander

Brig. Gen. James R. Kriesel relinquished command of the Oregon Air National Guard and Brig. Gen. Donna M. Prigmore assumed command in a change of command ceremony, January 5, 2019, at the Anderson Readiness Center in Salem, Oregon. Kriesel is scheduled to deploy in support of joint operations in Africa. Prigmore is now the first woman to command the Oregon National Guard's Air Component.

The Air Component Commander is responsible for mission readiness and operational effectiveness of two fighter wings (173rd and 142nd Fighter Wings), special tactics and air control squadrons, and more than 2,400 military and civilian personnel. In this role, Prigmore will oversee development of operationally trained, equipped and mission-ready forces in support of federal mission requirements to include North American Aerospace Defense Command with 24/7 immediate response in defense of North America and state missions of emergency response, relief and recovery operations throughout Oregon.

Increase in Lending Limit for Veteran Home Loans

The Oregon Department of Veterans' Affairs Home Loan Program had a banner year in 2018, with an outstanding $102,044,184 in new loan origination — a 21 percent increase over the previous year and the program's highest total in over two decades. Behind the numbers is the remarkable fact that 362 Oregon veterans and their families were able to achieve their dream of home ownership through the ODVA home loan program in 2018.

This year, they have an increased limit for veteran home loans. ODVA will accept loan applications up to a maximum of $484,350, an increase from $453,100 in 2018. In so doing, the department is following the lead of the Federal Housing Finance Agency (FHFA), which announced the maximum conforming loan limits for 2019 at the end of last year. The Housing and Economic Recovery Act of 2008 requires that the baseline conforming loan limit be adjusted each year for Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac to reflect the change in the average U.S. home price.

The new loan limits took effect Jan. 1. This marks the third year in a row that the lending limit has been increased. For more information about the Oregon Veterans' Affairs Home Loan Program, or to see if you qualify, visit orvethomeloans.com.

Statewide Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan

The public is invited to comment on the state's plan for outdoor recreation drafted by the Oregon Parks and Recreation Department (OPRD). Outdoor Recreation in Oregon: Responding to Demographical and Societal Change is posted for public review and comment at <https://www.oregon.gov/oprd/PLANS/Pages/201923SCORP.aspx>. Comments will be accepted through Feb. 7, 2019.

The plan closely examines the effects of important demographic and societal changes facing outdoor recreation providers in the state, including:

- An aging population
- An increasingly diverse population
- Lack of youth engagement in outdoor recreation
- An underserved low-income population
- Increasing levels of physical inactivity within the population.

OPRD planners developed the report using a series of carefully designed statewide research studies including a statistically reliable survey of Oregon residents. Staff gathered feedback from 3,550 randomly selected residents.

States are required to develop a Statewide Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan to be eligible to receive matching grants from the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund (LWCF) grant program. The five-year plan guides the use of those funds and other OPRD-administered grant programs including the Local Government Grant Program. It also provides recommendations to all levels of recreation providers on how they can better serve Oregonians.

Tax Season Tip: Earned Income Tax Credit

The federal Earned Income Tax Credit distributed about $63 billion to 5 million eligible workers and families last year nationwide. The average amount of EITC received was about $2,488 and up to $6,269 if the person filing has qualifying children. But, many Oregonians don't know that they are eligible.

To be eligible, taxpayers must have earned income last year. The taxpayer and all individuals claimed on their federal return must have valid Social Security numbers (SSN). Other eligibility requirements for filers include:

- They can't use the "married filing separate" filing status.

Victim Advocate. There still is time to make a big difference in the lives of victims of crime! If you are passionate about helping others, empathetic, a good listener, and just want to help people, we've got a great volunteer position for you. Victim Advocates have the unique privilege of providing crisis intervention and follow-up support to people who are experiencing trauma caused by crime. Advocates respond to hospitals and police stations, keep victims informed of their case status, accompany victims to court (as needed), and support them in exercising their rights under Oregon law. Volunteer trainings will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, starting in February. More information on the program can be found at www.bit.ly/ClackCoVictimAdvocate. Interested parties should contact Victim Assistance at 503-655-8616 or victimassistance@co.clackamas.or.us.

Mud and Manure and Pests, Oh My!February 23, 2019, 9:00am-3:00pm
Canby

If you have horses, then you have to put up with muck, right? Wrong! Make your place healthier for horses, reduce the insect population, help your property become more productive during the growing season, AND make it a chore-efficient place for you to manage! Learn non-toxic ways to control mud, manure, and pests – plus, find out how to compost horse manure, see different bin designs, and get off-site options for dealing with stall waste. Presenter Alayne Blickle, educator and photojournalist with Horses for Clean Water, is well known and highly respected in the horse community. Her fun, down-to-earth approaches to horse and land care will encourage and inspire you. A $10 registration fee includes lunch for all participants. If you have special dietary needs, please contact us. More information: lkilders@conservationdistrict.org or 503-210-6002. <https://bit.ly/2Svqb8r>

Noises Off by OCCT

March 8, 9, 15 & 16, 7:30pm
Beavercreek Grange

Called "the funniest farce ever written," Noises Off presents a manic menagerie of itinerant actors rehearsing a flop called Nothing's On. Doors slamming, on and offstage intrigue, and an errant herring all figure in the plot of this hilarious and classically comic play. By Oregon City Children's Theatre. Info and tickets: <http://www.occtheatre.org/>

Clackamas Emergency Services Foundation

Annual Benefit Auction and Dinner

March 16, 2019

Gray Gables, 3009 SE Chestnut St., Milwaukie, OR

The Foundation was formed in 1998 to provide funds to help people in need within the community. It consists of the following emergency service agencies – Clackamas Fire District #1, Clackamas County Sheriff's Office, Milwaukie Police and Oregon City Police. Its 8th annual dinner and auction raises money for those in need. For those who have experienced a fire, accident or other tragedy, Foundation funds can provide a warm hotel room in the middle of the night, a change of clothes, or necessary toiletries and food until other social services agencies can step in. We are asking for your support so we can enable the firefighters and law enforcement officers in our community to continue to provide help to those who need our assistance. CCC Camps & Workshops Nature camp isn't just for summer. Clackamas Community College's Environmental Learning Center has winter options for little ones to explore and learn about nature. Registration is required as space is limited and scholarships are available. For more information, visit www.clackamas.edu/elc/kids. For questions, contact Renee Harber at rharber@clackamas.edu or 503-594-3015. Schedule below.

Nature Striders Preschool Camp

Wetland Wonders – Feb. 12, 26, or 27

The Nature Striders preschool program gives children and their caregivers a chance to explore nature together, through activities like story time, crafts and walks in the forest/wetland habitat. Each session includes both indoor and outdoor activities, so be sure to dress for the weather. Nature Striders sessions are 10-11:30 a.m. and are geared toward children 2-5 years of age. The first session is free, and all others after that are just $15. Snacks are provided, but participants should bring something to drink. Join naturalist and educator Sarah Bidwell to explore the variety of aquatic creatures that swim, float and grow in our wetlands.
