April Town Hall Meeting Recap

The Hamlet had two guest speakers this month, starting with Katie Wilson from Clackamas County. She reminded people that the County is seeking input on the Courthouse Replacement Project at <https://bit.ly/2GU5BEJ>, and the second meeting of the new youth outreach team will be held on May 4 at Oregon City High School. Text or call Katie to RSVP at 971-347-5723 or email her at kwilson2@clackamas.us. Katie also announced that the new Clackamas County website is now live at <https://www.clackamas.us/>.

During the town hall, residents supported the idea of absorbing the non-active Carus Community Planning Organization (CPO) into the Hamlet of Beavercreek CPO. A survey will be mailed to the existing Carus CPO for input. Residents then expressed concern about Dollar General's desire to rezone a Rural Residential property to Rural Commercial in order to build a store on Beavercreek Road next to the gas station. (See last month's issue for more information.) The board received dozens of comments in opposition, which were shared directly with the developer. Because Dollar General has not officially applied to rezone, that's the extent of what the board can do right now; however, if Dollar General does apply, the board will share residents' feedback with the County.

Kris LaMar, a Master Gardener and Master Recycler, gave a presentation about composting and soil. She explained that humans cannot see the billions of nematodes, fungus, and bacteria in the soil because "we're

Local Volunteers Clean Up the Beavercreek Cemetery

By Laura McKay, Beavercreek Cemetery

Last October, a motor vehicle accident at the Beavercreek Cemetery caused about a dozen headstones to be damaged. After the accident, we realized we did not have any good pictures of some of the broken stones for the Memorial company to use for patterns to replace them. We weren't really sure what one of the headstones that was badly shattered had looked like. Angie from Affordable Family Memorials wondered if there would be a picture on www.findagrave.com and thought it would be a good idea to have them all listed there just in case we run into a similar situation again in the future.

On April 20, we had about 25 volunteers cleaning gravestones and taking pictures to upload to findagrave.com. I knew a volunteer for the cemetery who had indicated her grandson, Andrew Willhite from Troop 190, was looking for an Eagle Scout project, and when I contacted him to see if it would be something he'd be interested in, he took it on with enthusiasm.

Andrew recruited all the volunteers who showed up that Saturday with rags, buckets, brushes and cameras to clean headstones and take pictures to upload so that we could have a record for posterity, and for family ancestry researchers as well.

We love volunteers and are delighted to have not just pictures of our lovely monuments preserved out on the internet, but cleaned and shiny headstones all ready for Memorial Day next month!

Residential Fire Displaces Family Near Beavercreek

In mid-April, a house fire at 21520 S. Clear View Ct. in Oregon City displaced three family members. Unfortunately the family dog did not survive. Fire fighters were dispatched when neighbors saw smoke and flames coming from the backside of a single story home. On arrival crews went to work on what appeared to be a fire on the backside of the home that had gotten into the attic. Within 15 minutes the fire was under control. No one was injured and the family is working with the American Red Cross through this difficult time. As a reminder Clackamas Fire would like everyone to ensure they have working smoke detectors and keep all heat sources off when not attended.

Beavercreek Road Concept Plan Meeting 2 Recap

By Christina Robertson-Gardiner, Oregon City Senior Planner

A big thank you to all who attended the April 9th meeting and a belated thank you to the Oregon City School District for providing access to the library space. Lots of cookies were eaten, and questions, ideas, and comments were shared all around.

During the April 9, 2019 meeting, attendees listened to a presentation of the proposed Zoning Districts and items that would need to be amended in the development code to better match the vision of the plan. The project team asked additional questions, and attendees provided comments which will be entered into a public comment tracking spreadsheet that will track responses throughout the project and beyond.

For those who wish to provide additional comments or could not attend the meeting- please utilize the online Meeting 2 Public Comment Form (<https://bit.ly/2IRkk5w>). This form closes on May 10, 2019.

Public Comment Tracker

We will share what we have heard to date from public comments and meeting with various organizations through a comment tracker. A copy of the latest version of the comment tracker is available in the documents section of the project website (<https://bit.ly/2ISaYXe>) and will be updated in early May to incorporate comments from Meeting #2. Please let us know if you think we are missing a comment topic.

New Name?

One issue that came up over and over again in public outreach conversations and public comments this winter and spring was a concern that the name of the concept plan area was geographically confusing and was being confused with the Hamlet of Beavercreek. One way to lessen this concern is to potentially begin referring to the area with a new name as part of the code amendment project. Please click on the following link and send us your concept plan renaming ideas (<https://bit.ly/2PDxVOs>). Some initial ideas include Thimble Creek, East Caufield, Loder Road, SE Industrial (Oregon City), Two Creeks, and Thayer Greens.

If you were not able to make this meeting, there will be several opportunities (<https://bit.ly/2ULYrGh>) for you to participate in the Beavercreek Road Code Update process:

Beavercreek Road Concept Plan Project- Zoning and Code Amendments The Beavercreek Road Concept Plan (BRCP) is a guide to the creation of a complete and sustainable neighborhood in southeast Oregon City. The acknowledged BRCP provides a framework for urbanization of 453 acres within the urban growth boundary including a diverse mix of uses (an employment campus north of Loder Road, mixed-use districts along Beavercreek Road, and two mixed-use neighborhoods), all woven together by open space, trails, a network of green streets, and sustainable development practices. This spring and summer, the City of Oregon City will embark on a process to amend the Comprehensive Plan Map, Zoning Map and Oregon City Municipal Code (OCMC) to allow planned housing, employment and mixed-use development within the Concept Plan Area.

Pikeminnow Season Opens May 1

Help save salmon and steelhead and make money, too. Wednesday, May 1, marks the opening of this year's Northern Pikeminnow Sport Reward Fishery in the Columbia and Snake rivers. The program pays registered anglers $5 to $8 for each pikeminnow that is at least nine inches long. The more fish an angler catches, the more each pikeminnow is worth. And some fish have an even bigger payout. State fish and wildlife biologists have released up to 1,000 specially tagged northern pikeminnow into the Columbia and Snake rivers, each worth $500. Last year the top fishers in the program earned more than $71,000 in just five months of fishing. Northern pikeminnow are voracious eaters, consuming millions of young salmon and steelhead each year. Since 1990, anglers paid through the program have removed nearly 5 million pikeminnow from the Columbia and Snake rivers. The program has reduced predation from pikeminnow on young salmon and steelhead by approximately 40% since it began.

The 2019 Pikeminnow Sport Reward Fishery begins Wednesday and is scheduled to run through Sept. 30. Northern pikeminnow experts say The Dalles is one of the best places to fish early in the season. Last season that station registered 22,464 pikeminnow, one of the highest registration rates among the 19 stations on the rivers.

The fishery website, www.pikeminnow.org, has details on how to register for the program and applicable state fishing regulations. Anglers will also find resources on the site to help boost their fishing game, including maps, how-to videos and free fishing clinics.

May is Wildfire Awareness Month

When it comes to preventing wildfires, there's a lot at stake – lives, personal property, and the many values provided by Oregon's forests and rangelands. During the 2018 wildfire season, Oregonians were responsible for starting 1,330 wildfires that consumed over 329,000 acres.

"It's incredibly important that all Oregonians work with their neighbors to plan and prepare for fire season now," said Kristin Babbs, president of the Keep Oregon Green Association. "Educating yourself about how fires can get started will be key in reducing accidental wildfire ignitions this summer."

Wildfires in the wildland-urban interface are often started by human activity, such as debris burning or lawn mowing, and then spread to the forest. Once underway, a fire follows the fuel, whether it is trees or houses.

“Simple and inexpensive prevention strategies can make your home, family and community much safer,” Babbs said. “Spring is the perfect time to remove dead, flammable vegetation and limb up trees around the yard.”

To get an early start on Wildfire Awareness Month, join your neighbors in reducing your community's wildfire risk by taking part in National Wildfire Community Preparedness Day on Saturday, May 4. The National Fire Protection Association has teamed up with State Farm Insurance to encourage residents to commit a couple of hours, or the entire day, to raising wildfire awareness and working on projects that can protect homes and entire communities from the threat of fire.

State to Honor 187 Oregon Fallen Law Enforcement Officers on May 7

The State of Oregon will honor and remember 187 fallen law enforcement officers, and the families they left behind, during an hour-long memorial ceremony on Tuesday, May 7, 2019 at 1 PM. The event will take place outdoors, rain or shine, at the state memorial which is located at the Oregon Public Safety Academy, 4190 Aumsville Highway SE, in Salem.

The memorial honors 187 fallen Oregon law enforcement officers who have died in the line of duty since the 1880s. This includes officers from city, county, state, tribal and federal law enforcement agencies who have served as law enforcement officers, corrections officers, and parole and probation officers. Please join us in remembering fallen officers on May 7.

Tips to Avoid Social Security Fraud

Anybody can get those annoying robo-calls on their phones at home and work – including FBI employees. Scammers are definitely equal opportunity fraudsters! Like many of you, I have always received my fair share of calls, but recently I had a week where the calls just wouldn't stop. Most came from a set of almost identical numbers.

When I picked up, the recorded voice told me that someone was using my Social Security number to commit fraud. The scammer then used a bit of social engineering to try to get me to act without thinking. The voice tried to frighten me by telling me that Social Security officials were shutting down my card, and I would lose all my benefits. If I would just press a certain number on the keypad, I would be connected to someone who could help me resolve the issue.

There are plenty of different kinds of fraud schemes involving Social Security. In some cases, the scammer may tell you that he can help you get more benefits or resolve some previously unknown problem. In another variation, the person contacting you may say your Social Security file is missing some information, and he just needs to update the file to ensure you don't lose out on anything. Regardless of the scheme, the fraudster is trying to get personal information out of you. With your number and other personal details you provide, he can potentially take out loans, get credit cards or try to access a tax return that is coming to you.

Our friends at the Social Security Administration have some helpful tips on keeping yourself safe:

- Know that Social Security employees will never threaten to reduce your benefits or promise an increase in benefits if you give

- Never give personal information over the phone or by email, particularly if the request comes from an unsolicited caller or in an unsolicited message.

Reminder: Call 811 Before You Dig

The Oregon Public Utility Commission (PUC) and the Oregon Utility Notification Center (OUNC) remind Oregonians to call 811 before digging to have underground utility lines marked. "We remind homeowners and professional contractors to call 811 to reduce the risk of striking an underground utility line," said Megan Decker, PUC Chair. "Striking a single line can result in costly repairs, inconvenient outages, fines, injuries, and in rare cases, fatalities."

The OUNC, who operates the free 811 one-call center, will notify the affected utility companies that serve the area of the planned project, which may include planting a tree or shrub, building a deck, or installing a fence. Utility personnel will visit the project site to mark the approximate location of the underground lines, pipes and cables in the planned digging area.

"Never assume a digging project is too shallow and won't hit a utility line," said Scott Gallegos, OUNC Board Chair. "The depth of utility lines vary due to erosion, previous digging projects, or uneven surfaces, so always call 811 at least two business days ahead to have your lines located. This is the only way to know what's below."

Statistics show that a majority of line strikes occur June through September at a time when more yard work is being done. In 2017 an estimated 439,000 line strikes occurred nationwide, 25 percent of which were due to insufficient notice to the 811 service.

To reduce the number of line strikes in Oregon, there are strong local partnerships between the OUNC, Oregon Occupational Safety and

Declining Vaccination Coverage Threatens Clackamas County

Clackamas County Public Health officials announced that despite vaccines being one of the safest and most effective public health interventions, vaccine-preventable diseases are on the rise.

According to the Public Health Impact report (<https://bit.ly/2IU7G5V>), a growing trend of delaying vaccinations, or exempting from them entirely, has contributed to increases in vaccine-preventable outbreaks in the United States. The report also sites that lack of access to health care services is a significant issue.

"For over 50 years, immunizations have saved more than a billion lives and prevented countless illnesses and disabilities in the United States," said Dr. Sarah Present, Clackamas County Health Officer. "Vaccine-preventable diseases, such as measles, mumps, and whooping cough, are still a threat that continue to infect U.S. children, resulting in hospitalizations and deaths every year."

Fast facts about vaccination coverage in Clackamas County:

- * 9.1% (397) of Clackamas County kindergartners have at least one non-medical exemption – higher than both National and State rates
- * 6.2% (3,820) of all Clackamas County students (K-12) have one or more non-medical exemptions
- * 3.4% (2,124) of all Clackamas County students (K-12) are completely unvaccinated
- * 79 students have medical exemptions to one or more vaccines, which accounts for .001% of all Clackamas County students.

The reasons for the decline in vaccination coverage are complex and likely driven by a mix of scientific, socioeconomic, sociocultural, and political factors, including:

- * Limited access to health care resources and vaccines
- * Ease of non-medical exemption
- * Lack of trust in vaccine safety, pharmaceutical companies and conventional health care systems
- * Misinformation about vaccines has increased skepticism about vaccine science and health risks.

"Vaccines are not just about individual choices. They are about our connection and responsibility to others," said Richard Swift, Director of Clackamas County's Health, Housing & Human Services Department. "Declining vaccine coverage has introduced a number of harmful infectious diseases back into our communities and is threatening lives."

For more information, visit the Clackamas County Public Health Division's website at www.clackamas.us/publichealth.

Update on the Willamette Falls Legacy Project

Sometime in 2020, the Willamette Falls Trust hopes to be breaking ground on the first phase of Oregon City's future riverwalk; one that will weave through the former Blue Heron paper mill at the edge of the Willamette River and provide a prominent view of Willamette Falls. Phase 1 will include safe and secure interim public access onto the former Blue Heron paper mill site, a prominent view of Willamette Falls, habitat restoration along the riverbank and building demolition that will prepare the site for future phases. ## Tips to Avoid Elder Fraud Part 1

First up – let's talk about an increasingly common form of elder fraud: technical support scams. Over the course of the last year, the FBI's Internet Crime Complaint Center says seniors 60 and older reported losses of more than $26 million. That is a 91% increase in reported losses from last year.

Technical support fraud happens when criminals pose as customer, security or tech support representatives – usually from a well-known tech company. In one version of the scam – the fraudster contacts the victim by phone, email or text to tell the victim that there's a problem with the victim's device or financial account. The fraudster may say the device has a security flaw and has been hacked... or that some unauthorized person is stealing money from a bank account.

In another version of the scam, the senior is experiencing a real technical problem with a device and goes out in search of help. When he pulls up the search engine results, he may inadvertently click on a bad ad instead of a legitimate vendor.

A third common way for a senior to get caught up in this scam is for the fraudster to use malware to cause a pop-up message or lock screen to appear on the senior's device.

No matter how the scam starts, the criminal's goal is to convince the senior to give the fake tech support person remote access to the device. With that access, the fraudster can now potentially have access to all of your personal info, your tax returns, your bank and credit card accounts, and more.

Criminals target seniors because they are often more trusting, financially stable and less likely to report the crime out of shame.

Here's how you can protect yourself and family members:

- * Know that legitimate tech support people will not contact you unsolicited.
- * Never give unknown, unverified people access to your devices.
- * Ensure that you update all anti-virus, security and malware protection on your devices. Don't let an unknown person tell you that he needs to do it for you.
- * If you receive a concerning pop-up or your screen locks, shut down your device immediately regardless of the directions you receive from the scammer. Oftentimes, waiting a short time and rebooting will fix the problem.
- * When doing online searches for technical support, be cautious of listings at the top of the page labeled as "sponsored". If you are having trouble with a particular software or hardware product, go directly to that company's webpage.

Tips to Avoid Elder Fraud Part 2

A recent law enforcement operation to target those who prey on elderly Americans shows that the victims lost more than three-quarters of a billion dollars in the past year. That sweep – announced by the FBI and the Department of Justice – involved more than two million victims, most of them aged 60 and older. Another popular scam – money mules.

When a criminal wants to add layers of protection between a victim and himself, he will use a money mule. The money mule is a person who acts as a middle-man - either knowingly or unknowingly transferring illegally-acquired money on behalf of or at the direction of another. The mule makes it easier for the criminal to mask his identity, move money out of the U.S., and evade scrutiny by banks. The scam can work a couple different ways:

In one variation, a scam artist targets a senior with any one of a thousand frauds. When the victim sends the money, he actually sends it to the money mule who then transfers the funds to the criminal. The victim definitely loses money in this scenario.

In another variation, the victim is the money mule. In most cases, seniors targeted in this way don't know that they are involved in a larger criminal scheme. In this scenario, other victims send the senior citizen funds, which he then transfers to someone he thinks is a love interest or business partner. In this case, the mule himself may or may not lose money.

Seniors are particularly vulnerable to money mule scams because they tend to be more trusting; may be lonely or spend a great deal of time alone; or have diminished physical or mental capacity.

Here's how you can protect yourself and family members:

- * Don't agree to set up a bank account for someone you don't know and trust.
- * Don't give out your own bank account information or use your own account to transfer money for other people. No legitimate business will ask you to do this.
- * Don't respond to unsolicited emails, texts, calls or social media messages offering easy money.
- * Be wary of an employer or love interest who asks you to transfer money and offers you the opportunity to keep a portion for yourself.
- * Be suspicious of any online romance in which seeking volunteers to work with veterans in Clackamas, Deschutes and Polk counties who may not be aware of the state, county and federal benefits they qualify for or how to access them. It's part of the brand-new Veteran Volunteer Program, the first-ever statewide volunteer program working with the Oregon Department of Veterans' Affairs and its partners to help connect veterans with their earned benefits, which can provide needed financial support, health care and other long-term care needs.

Volunteers will work closely with the state's veteran volunteer coordinator and certified veteran service officers in each county to locate veterans in long-term care facilities who may need assistance accessing their benefits. Veterans over the age of 65 represent approximately half of the state's veteran population. The program is currently being piloted in Clackamas, Deschutes and Polk counties, but will eventually be rolled out statewide. Prospective volunteers do not have to reside in Clackamas, Deschutes or Polk County as long as they have the ability to travel for their volunteer duties and training.

The program is open to anyone 18 years or older. Anyone who enjoys working with veterans and the aging population is encouraged to apply. For more information, please visit oregonvetvolunteer.com or contact Veteran Volunteer Coordinator Mark Newell at 503-373-2057 or veteranvolunteer@odva.state.or.us.

Volunteer trainings will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, starting in February. More information on the program can be found at
