Community Spotlight: Julie Hoffman

By Jenn Logan

Long-time resident of Beavercreek Julie Hoffman shares her ties with the area spanning 100 years. It began with her great-grandfather Richard Simms who purchased their timber farm in 1909. “He cleared one acre of timber each year he lived here. Farmed the cleared land, half-timber and half-cleared land,” she said.

Having lived in Beavercreek all her life, Julie is grateful that her family has been able to continue the tradition of farming. Living on the farm that her dad grew up on is meaningful to Julie as she looks back at the history of where it started.

“Richard and Cora Simms settled here in 1909. Their daughter Thelma Simms married another Beavercreek local named Ed Hoffman, my grandparents. Ed’s parents had come to the area around the same time as the Simms. In the 1920s Ed was hired by the Beavercreek Coop to run the store at Beavercreek. He ran the store until his death, over 50 years. They used to receive berries from the local farms and Grandpa would truck the berries to the cannery in Gresham. This is when most people produced berries or other crops.”

In the 1940s Ed and Thelma Hoffman started a raw milk dairy. They delivered milk in glass bottles and the family ran the dairy until the 1970s. Since then the family has been farming berries, Christmas trees and timber.

“As time has changed, most of [Beavercreek] has become a bedroom community. As the years went by it was hard to support the family on our own land and we at one time were renting and crop-shared land to farm.”

When asked what her favorite thing about Beavercreek is, she said “I love the history.”

Julie and her mom – along with her many nieces and nephews that keep her busy on the farm – hold a significant place in Beavercreek’s history, not only because of their ability to farm the same land since 1909, but also because the land has been supporting the family for a long time.

August Hamlet Meeting Overview

Watch Commander Lieutenant Marcus Mendoza of the Clackamas County Sheriff’s Office was the first guest speaker. The office hired 30 new deputies last year and is on track to hire 30 this year, which would bring the total to 160 sworn deputy positions; some were lateral moves while others are new recruits, he said. Three deputies are now working on the Neighborhood Livability Project, an initiative created by the Sheriff’s Office in 2015 to address ‘problem houses’ alongside several community and agency partners.

When asked about supporting a future National Night Out in Beavercreek, Lt. Mendoza said the Sheriff’s Office would participate and bring deputies and likely canines. Lt. Mendoza reminded citizens of public data on call activity at www.clackamas.us/sheriff/stats that shows types of calls, priority, and other details. From the link, click on ‘Unincorporated Clackamas County’ then use the map to highlight Beavercreek.

The second guest speaker was Christian Snuffin, Senior Traffic Engineer, Clackamas County. In summer of 2023 the County will request community input on its Transportation System Plan, a process that takes place every 10 years that identifies projects for the next 20 years for potential funding, he said. Board chair Tammy Stevens noted that this is the time for local residents to advocate for projects to benefit Beavercreek.

Board members raised concerns about current transportation issues facing the Hamlet including vehicles speeding when traveling south on Beavercreek Road from a 45 mph to 35 mph zone. Christian confirmed that Beavercreek is on the waitlist for a temporary radar speed feedback sign, which may take two or more years, and that the Hamlet is a “strong candidate” to receive funding for a permanent sign, which would cost $100,000 or more.

Other issues raised included speeding when going south from Beavercreek Road and transitioning to Kamrath, and west from Beavercreek Road and transitioning to Leland; deep ditches on Leland Road by Korner Park; and vegetation growth to the west of the post office causing visibility issues.

Christian suggested that the ditches could potentially be managed by community volunteers who received a Right of Way Permit. With regard to speed zones, Clackamas County will have authority to issue its own speed zone orders, subject to the laws and processes that the Oregon Department of Transportation requires, by approximately next spring.

New signs were added and pavement marking improvements were made to intersections in Beavercreek including Beavercreek, Kamrath and Leland; Windy City and Unger; Upper Highland; Larkin; Lower Highland; Carus; Ferguson; Kamrath and Carus; and Leland at Leslie.

Crashes on rural roads end in fatality more often than urban roads, so the County is also adding curve warning signage to 21 corridors spanning 110 miles of roadway including Kamrath, Maple Lane, Henrici, and portions of Beavercreek and Leland.

Attendee Bill Flood shared that he is a contractor for Clackamas County tasked with assessing community engagement, researching best practices, and making recommendations for improvements. He joined to observe the meeting and asked what could be improved. Board members shared they would like the monthly Hamlet meetings to be hybrid, and that communication from the County was inconsistent. The Hamlet has a County liaison, but is often initiating contact to stay informed.

Board members also recommended Bill read the Complete Communities paper from 2004 on how the Hamlets and Villages program originated, which they discussed in detail during the meeting. Beavercreek is unique because it is both a Hamlet and a Community Planning Organization (CPO).

Land Use Applications:

- Z0358-22 Anna & Robert Murray, 22059 S Essig Lane, Beavercreek, zoned Rural Area Residential 2, 1.96 acres, requesting a new temporary home for care.

- Z0372-22 Alexander Shah, 18531 S Upper Highland Road, Beavercreek, zoned EFU, 39 acres, requesting to replace dwelling on EFU and maintain current dwelling as an accessory building.

Land Use Activities:

- Z0439-21 Enoch & Danielle Man, 20750 S Beavercreek Road, Oregon City, zoned RRFF5, 56.72 acres, requesting a removal of historic overlay. BCC Hearing 1/19/22, approved with conditions. Appealed to LUBA. County pulled back. 7/14 County attorney submitted red line to BCC at 7/14 Business Meeting; held over to 7/21 Business Meeting. BCC approved again, appealed to LUBA again.

Board updates and reports:

- Beavercreek's first Open Air Market will take place in September. Ten vendors have submitted applications, which are due five days prior to each event. SaniCans will donate portapotties. The annual Tree Lighting Ceremony is confirmed for December 3 at Korner Park.
- Senate Bill 762 has been delayed due to issues with the drawn boundaries; it will be re-issued next spring.
- Following up on a question raised in last month's meeting: seismic upgrades being made to I-205 will enable it to withstand a 9.0 magnitude earthquake.

- The new welcome to Beavercreek sign is nearly complete thanks to community donations from Patrick Wilson (the large chunk of wood) and Harold Taylor (engraving), with Joe Matteo organizing and constructing with help from Paul Rooney.
- Jack Hipp is retiring from the board after serving since 2017. The board thanks him for his service. His position will be filled for the board for the remaining one year.
- Four Hamlet board of director positions are up for election this October including the seats of Joe Matteo, Bill Merchant, Jessica Sernach, and Tammy Stevens. The board has discretion to add up to three additional seats for those in the Carus area who may be interested. Those interested in running for a board seat must submit an application which can be found at <https://beavercreek.org/volunteer/> by the September 28 Hamlet meeting.

Next month's meeting is September 28 and will include a guest speaker to discuss the I-205 tolling project.

The Hamlet of Beavercreek Korner Park

By Cindy Hillyard

For those of you that are not familiar with the Korner Park, it is the little piece of land on the northwest corner of Beavercreek Rd and Leland Rd. We call it a park and it is owned by the County and maintained by the Hamlet. We are very excited to be bringing back some activities to the park.

This spring we held our first Easter Egg Hunt. This was kind of a last minute thing, but we pulled it off with a little help. We had some raffle baskets, an Easter bunny, photo booth, 1,200 eggs and 90 Golden Eggs, and about 75 kids. Fortunately for the event, the weather waited until we were done to rain, sleet, and snow. A special thanks to Barb and Patrick from Kissin Kate's/Beavercreek Saloon – they were a terrific support to our event. Thank you to Matt Butler, our emcee for the morning and to all those that purchased raffle tickets, donated, and attended the event. We couldn't have done without you!

Next up, we have an Open Air Market planned for Saturday September 10 and 24 from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. in the park. This market will include crafts, flea/garage sale, and farm and hobby items. We did an inquiry on Facebook that sparked some interest. Vendor applications are starting to come in, and we still have some booth space available. If you are interested in being a vendor, please email park@beavercreek.org and we will get you an application. If this goes well, we plan to put this Market event on the calendar for next summer.

Save the date!!! The Hamlet of Beavercreek Holiday Tree Lighting is scheduled for Saturday, December 3. We are working on getting an Amazon Wishlist set up for those that would like to help purchase items for the kids' stockings that will be handed out during the event. Watch for information soon.

We'd also like to thank Jake McCutcheon with The Wall for helping us out. He worked with Chase, Jones & Associates to get some property boundaries in the park figured out and is arranging portable restrooms through American Sanican for our market event.

Horse Rescued After 200 Foot Fall Down Ridge

As reported in the Oregonian, Beavercreek residents on a four-day pack trip on the Pacific Coast Trail encountered fallen trees they had to navigate with five horses, but a loose stirrup caught on a log sent one horse “somersaulting through the branches down a ridge.”

Owner Jessica Mandt expected the worst, however, the group was able to rescue the horse with help from the division chief of operations for the Hoodland Fire District, U.S. Forest Service firefighters, and volunteers from the Oregon Humane Society Technical Animal Rescue team.

New 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline Launched in July

The National Suicide Prevention Lifeline has existed for years, connecting people with trained counselors who listen, understand how their problems are affecting them, provide support, and connect them to resources if necessary.

Since July 16, 2022, 988 has been designated as the new three-digit dialing code that will route callers to the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline. This new, shorter phone number will make it easier for people to remember and access mental health crisis services. People who call, text, or chat 988 will be connected to the same trained counselors for support. Visit <https://988lifeline.org/> for more details.

The Tansy Tamers of Beavercreek

Tansy ragwort is a noxious, invasive weed that is dangerous to humans and livestock due to a poisonous alkaloid in its tissue which causes liver damage when ingested. It is abundant in Beavercreek (and many rural areas) due to its ability to easily spread.

Beavercreek resident Ally Buchanan knows the dangers and asked neighbors on the Facebook Beavercreek Oregon Forum if they'd be willing to join her in some tansy pulling parties. Dozens of people answered her call and she reached out to local landowners who needed support. Ally hosted eight pulling parties with about 15 people joining to help at seven different properties in the area. No more parties are planned for this season, though she aims to start up again in the spring.

For those seeking to control Tansy on their own properties, a few tips: Mowing prevents immediate seeding, but stimulates vegetative growth leading to more plants and stems in the same season, according to the Clackamas Soil & Water Conservation District. The best management includes pulling in early spring or chemical control methods, while biological controls like Cinnabar moths help to weaken or kill plants.

Barbeque Safety

Submitted by Clackamas Fire

If you are regularly using a barbeque pellet stove for your summer cookouts, these safety tips can help you to prevent fires and to use your barbeque safely.

Ensure your barbeque pellet stove is functioning properly:

- Maintain, according to the manufacturer's specifications.
- Check the heat shield for holes or warping.

- Check the fire box for holes.
- Keep it covered to limit rust and wear and tear.

You can help prevent fires:

- Never leave garbage unattended.
- Keep barbeques away from structures.
- Clean out dry vegetation from under your deck.
- Keep barbeques clean – do not allow grease to build up.

For more information or if you have questions regarding barbeque pellet stove safety, please contact the Clackamas Fire District #1 Fire Marshal's Office at 503-742-2660.

Horse Keeping and Land Management

By the Clackamas Soil & Water Conservation District

Clackamas County residents love their horses! We even rival Kentucky when it comes to horse population.

If you have one of the many horse properties in our county, you most likely dreamed of a lush green pasture with healthy horses frolicking in sunshine. Somehow, however, you might have ended up with a weedy pasture with horses ankle or even knee-deep in mud. If this sounds like your situation, you have come to the right place.

Whether you are just starting out with property management, have mastered the art of manure, mud, and water management, or are somewhere in between, we have resources for your education and enjoyment.

We offer these resources to assist you in reaching your goals on your farm. Explore our library of documents and videos. Like our Facebook page to receive timely information about events or other activities at the Clackamas Soil and Water Conservation District. (insert the link)

County Investigates Suspected Heat Related Death

The Clackamas County Medical Examiner's office is investigating one suspected heat-related death of an elderly male in July 2022. The elderly male who died was in his home that had a non-functioning air conditioner. No additional information will be released.

As heat waves become more frequent, community members are encouraged to check on their neighbors – especially those who are more vulnerable to heat related illness and death.

Clackamas County has several cooling centers open throughout the county and can arrange for rides to the centers. Visit www.Clackamas.us/relief for more information.

See you next month!
